NEW YORK DIRECTOR OF LOTTERY WARNS

He Opens an Investigation of 3 Who Tampered With Tickets, but Bars Withdrawing Them From Sale

By EDWARD HUDSON The director of New York State's new and highly successful instant lottery said yesterday that some lottery vendors were uspected of cheating buyers by keeping tickets they had found to be winners and by selling those that they knew were worthless. The director, John D. Quinn, an nounced that he had begun investigations of three vendors who had either sold or exhibited lottery tickets that had been scratched to uncover a code denoting 52 and $5 winners.

The vendors are in New York City, Buffalo and Rochester. The tickets of the Buffalo vendor have already been confishe may be subjected to prosecution, Mr. Quinn declared.

She waited two nights at her friend's house, then, occiling some clothes, decided to go home. The officials, who were still waiting, took her into citatody and sent her to remote Done, Name dy and sent her to remote-Dong Nang Island, 70 miles north of Vientiane. There, with 200 other women, including 40 drug addicts, principally smokers of marijuana and opturn, they cleared land, put up buildings and ilstened to hours of lectures—on the greatness of laos; on the usefulness of work, on pride in their homeland-from dawn until well into the night. After 40 days an order arrived for her release. Her mother, baving a friend in the district Communist organization, got a paper saying she was essential to the support of ber family, so she was released with 15 others who had convinced the officials that they had learned their lessons.

"There will not be any more, oot for a long time," said Chansamooe, a small figure with bair down to her waist and a thin, nervous smile. Only she and two or three others released with her have remained in Laos, the rest heving fled across the Mekong as soon as they could. "I do not blame them," she said. "The send us the empty pouches of our tobacco and we'll send you a dollar.

We're making this offer because we believe we understand pipe smokers. Just as the surfer travels around the world looking for that one Perfect Wave, the pipe smoker roams all over the tobacco market looking for that one Perfect Tobacco. With no modesty at all, we announce two perfect tobaccos: Captain Black and Captain Black Gold. Two extraordinary pipe mixtures, both designed to make pipe smoking a total pleasure. Open a pouch or tin of Captain Black and discover the sinfully insinuating scent of this masterful blend of Cavendish, White Burley and rare Turkish in this deep black, bite-free pipe mix.

Then, for lovers of the great Cavendish there is Captain Black Gold, the most carefully selected, most matured Cavendish you can buy. It's exceptionally mild, slow-burning and non-biting.

So try Captain Black and Captain Black Gold now. You'll either discover the tobacco you love, or you'll get a dollar. If you don't think our tobaccos are better than your tobaccos, send the pouches from both our tobaccos to Lane Limited, 419 Park Avenue South, New York City, N.Y. and we'll send you a dollar. in interrupt all his activities temporarily," Elysée Palace announced today.

Reports from Belgrade, however, said that the 84-year-old Yugoslav leader had returned from a hooting trip in the western Yugoslav mountains with the visiting President of Rumania, Nicolae Ceausescu and that the two leaders spent much of the rest of the day in political talks.

Diplomatic sources there said that farshal Tito's illness appeared to be more diplomatic than physical, and they suggested that President Giscard d'Estaing had decided on his own to cancel the rist, which was to bave begun on Wednesday.

The source noted that Yugoslavia had been a principal organizer of a meeting last month of so-called nonaligned naions in Sri Lanka, where a resolution was adopted calling for a boycott against some French goods on the ground that France had sold arms to South Africa.

Elysée Palace, in its announcement, did not specify the nature of Marshal Tilo's illness that it said had caused the postconement of the visit to Yugoslavia. But French diplomatic source said that the ugoslav leader had suffered a mild heart attack and had been ordered to take a complete rest for two months.

The Yugoslav Foreign Minister, Milos Minic, flew from Belgrade earlier in the day to deliver a message from President Tito to Mr. Giscard d'Estaing.

It was announced here that the message contained President Tito's regrets for having to ask for a postpooement of the visit for reasons of health. The Elysée Palace said Mr. Giscard d'Estaing had conveyed "warm salutations and best wishes" to the Yugoslav leader. Reports from Belgrade, however, quoted diplomatic sources as having exast-mioute effort to persuade the French President to go ahead with the visit. . Alter the announcement by the Elysee Palace, it was recalled here that for sever-

Some of the Welsh try to laugh it off. It is said here that an alien government—sometimes England, sometimes Ireland—advised Wales to produce more water by diluting it. And it is said that Martians landed here, looked for evidence of moisture on earth and went back dry.

Nevertheless, the drought, now two years old here, is beginning to bite hard. Schools reopened this week, but some close early when the water goes off. So working mothers leave their jobs early to take their children home. Trout have been dying in shrunken and stagnant rivers, and the thickening concentration of bacteria in rivers has endangered swimmers. The start of the soccer and rugby seasons has been

Like many Welshmen, David Bell, proprietor of the White Swan Pub in Llanfrynach, has put rocks in the tanks of his toilet to reduce the amount of water used in flushing. Signs in his restrooms urge people oot to flush unless they think they have to, and Mr. Bell leaves a bucket of water near the toilets to be poured into the tanks when the water is off.

Fewer Wash Days

In the village of Ynysybwl, Mcurig Ellis, a metal worker, said his family now washes clothea once a week in stead of twice. "And we save the bath-water for the toilet." he said, "because there's no water coming into it until the next morning."

Bathwater, in fact, may be eclipsing coal as southeast Wales' principal natural resource. With garden hoses banned, a lot of bathwater ends up oanbed, a lot or bathwater ends up in the garden, "Wc collect it in buckets at home," said Harry Crippin, secretary of the City of Cardiff, "We use it to kill the black fly on the roses. Bathwater is good for killing black fly."

Mr. Crippin said that the city of Cardiff diff has stopped watering its parks and washing its buses and streets. It tricd to stop watering its 16 bowling greens but replacing dead grass would cost £8,000, or $14,240, so water is being trucked in from underground streams near the port.

The economic cost so far has been relatively light. About 500 jobs have been lost in small businesses, such as car washes, which have been forced to close, and in laundries, hairdressers' and dentists' offices. Many now can Colin Pugh runs a nursery in Radyr, outside Cardiff. "Nobody has bought much," he said. "If they buy, they can't water it." He said sales this summer were down 60 perceot from last year.

The big layoffs that some officials have predicted for the multinational companies that own factories all over the region have not occurred and prohably will not. A few have had their water supplies cut 5 percent, and the rest will be subject to the cuts late

But the British Government and the water authority promised this week that compaoies could keep the water they need to prevent layoffs, if necessary, extra supplies will be piped in from Scotland, whatever the cost.

Auto Workers End Strike in Argentina; Plants in Operation

By JUAN de ONIS Special to The New York Times

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 10-Argentina's striking automobile workers returned to their jobs today. The strike, which involved 20,000 workers at its height, was the most serious that the ruling military junta has faced since it took power in March. The labor action was met by a decree threatening the strike's organizers with as many as 10 years in orison.

The auto workers, whose union was militant in winning wage demands in the past, have been particularly affected by reduction in weekly working hours. Their industry has cut back on production drastically after a sharp drop in demand in April and May. However, faced with the threat of dismissal without severance pay, the striking workers at the Ford, Chrysler, Mercedes-Benz, General Motors and Fiat plants have gradually returned

Ford Says 91% Report In

Ford representatives said that of 2,086 workers due in this morning for the early shift, 1,898, or 91 percent, came in. Chrysler was operating normally at both its truck and automobile plants, and was considering an overtime shift tomorrow to catch up on lost production. General Motors is operating only three days a week and will reopen its plants Monday.

Violence, which has accompanied many inion-management disputes in Argentina's past, was part of this one, too. Carlos Balsa, the 32-year-old Chrysler supervisor in charge of the company's car fleet, was machine-gumed to death as he arrived his Government.

The bill, contrary to the wishes of a wide range of opposition opinion that seeks to bypass the country's present institution and start from scratch, will be submitted to the National Movement. which has been Spain's only political party, and the present Parliament. Both are rightist strongholds of the old regime and tough battles are expected to win approval for a plan that would aliminate both institutions, at least in their present

The Prime Minister made no mentioo of a referendum later this year to give popular approval to the bill. It was assumed that one would be held as required for legislative acts that change the fundamental laws of the country. But on this point as on the details of the bill and its timetabla, Mr. Suarez was silent.

Since the reports on Wednesday that the Nobel Prizes winning author was decamping from his Swiss residence, purportedly for fear of Soviet ageots, and bad told the United States Im-migration Service that Cavendisb was his destination; this' little southtown has been beeastern Vermoot sieged by newsmeo. The center of speculation has been a 50.7-acre parcel of land on Windy Hill Road, surrounded by an eight-feet, whe mesh feace, with a strand of barbed wire on top. From behind the stand of dense birch and pine woods that screen, the property, the sound of bankmering can be heard. One contractor said that about 30 men are at work renovating the old house on the property:

Mr. Vinogradov, who described himself as a "friend" of Mr. Solzhenitsyn. was lunch to the gate early this morn-ing by the bonking of a car horn-new sign on the gate said: "Honk and wait."

'After throwing up his arms and attempting to flee at the sight of a reporter, Mr. Vinogradov insisted that property was to be his bome and not that of Mr. Solzhenitsyn, who bas a peochant for security.

Even if I knew anything, I wouldn't tell you," be said. bespectacled, dark-baired man with a frioge of beard shaped not un-like that of the author, Mr. Vinogradov said he was an architect who had met-Mr. Solzhenitsyn through Russian émigré circles in Montréal. He said he had moved to New York and now was planning to put up a studio and move here. Other sources said he had done much of the scheduling and arrangements for the author's tours in America.

Mr. Vinogradov claimed that he had lest heard from Mr. Solzheoitsyn last spring when the author was in Califorhalf miles up a steep, whiting dirt nia Last year, Mr. Solzbenitsyn had road that a wolf wouldn't chase a taken part in a summer Russian language program at Norwich University not far from bert. ::"

Suggests Address for Mail

Asked why Mr. Solzhenitsyn had told the immigration officials, that Cavendish was his destination, Mr. Vinogradov suggested that it was possible the author had just given the name of the town so that his copious mail could be handled here by his friend. Mr. Vinogradov declined to give his age. He departed back down the path before he could be asked if it was the fall foliage that had drawn him here. Mr. Vinogradov is listed on the records showing the purchase of the records showing the purchase of the land as the "trustee." Mrs. Wallace's Wiretap Spurs Questions on Marriage

By B. DRUMMOND AYRES Jr. . Special to The New York Times .

MONIGOMERY, Ala., Sept. 10-The disclosure this week that many of Gov. George C. Waltace's bedroom telephone conversations had been surreptitiously recorded, apparently by his wife, has aised questions about the stability of the Governor's marriage.
Friends of the Wallace family and some of those involved in investigating the eavesdropping say privately that the Governor's 37-year-old wife, Cornelia decided to tap her husband's phone to determine whether he was discussing her with other women, perhaps in disparaging terms.

She is also said to have suspected that the Governor, 57 years old and crippled from the waist down since a 1972 essassination attempt, had ordered some of his aides to keep watch on her daily activi-

She Has Not Commented

Mrs. Wallace, an outgoing former country music performer who likes to specu-late periodically about the possibility of succeeding her busband as Governor, has oot commented on the eavesdropping. The Governor, in a hastily called news conference late Wednesday, said the matter was "purely domestic, involving me

About New York

That Overshadowed Race in the North Bronx

By MURRAY SCHUMACH

What with five Democrats seeking the nomination for United States Sens tor from New York next Tuesday, very kittle attention is being paid to a Demo-cratic primary fight in the North Bronx, though this is the only case where the Bronx Democratic organization is trying to unseat a Democratic Assem-

This lack of general interest does not surprise residents of the North Bronz. For, apart from the fact that a primary race for the Assembly is rarely vital in the larger world of politics, the North Bronx, like other middle-class areas of the city, such as Mill Basin in Brooklyn or Bayside, Queens, or most sections of Staten Island, rarely occupies center stage of the city's endless drama.

The cooviction that the North Bronx is neglected because it is middle class is one of the few points on which Assemblyman Vincent A. Marchiselli and his chief rival, Alfred Locascio,

"We don't get our share of social services because we are regarded as a middle-income area," says Assembly-man Marchiselli. "Actually, this area has been hard hit in recent years. Many of tha people are in construction work, where unemployment is very high. Many others are in the city Civil Service and have become victims of budget slashes. So where there used to be two incomes in a family, you now have ooe, Sometimes none.' Mr. Locascio says:

"Our trouble is that we are not a poverty area. All the money is earmarked for poverty areas. Ours is a stable oeighborhood. It is unique. This is the last foothold in the city before you cross into Westchester."

The battleground for this primary—the 86th A.D., where both candidates were born—is dominated by private homes and inhabited mainly by residents of Italian, Irish, German and East European descent. In addition, since the turn of the century, and perhaps earlier, a substantial community of blacks has lived in the North Bronx.

Until shortly after World War II the many spacious lots of the area were natural playgrounds for youngsters and there are still some dirt roads in the North Bronx where the main thoroughfares Include White Plains Road, Gun Hill Road, Neried Avenue, 233d Street and Boston Road. Bronx District Attorney Mario Merola, a Democrat, lives in the North Bronx, and so does the Bronx Republican leader, State Senator John D. Calandra.

Some significant changes have oc-curred in this area sioce World War II, with the construction of many large apartment buildings, particularly of the Mitchell-Lama variety, and a low-in-come project, Edenwald. The area became increasingly hlack and Hispanic. Swarms of real estate "blockbusters' descended on the neighborhood, Crime and drug addiction increased.

However, the large majority of the newly arrived blacks and Hispanic people who bought homes and rented apartments in the North Bronx are trying desperately to maintain middleto prevent the spread of the pockets of violence and ugliness.

This is the setting for the strange political war of the North Bronx, Mr. Marchiselli says that Patrick J. Cun-ningham, Democratic leader of the Bowling Greeo closed about two years ago, when the United States Customs Service moved to the World Trade Center. This summer the Custom House was opened to the public and since then 55,000 visitors have streamed in to view the 69-year-old huilding with its 44 Corinthian columns, Daniel Chester Freoch sculptures, Reginald Marsh murals and marble lobby.

Mr. Locascio says only that he has the support of the Democratic organization in the area, though the North Bronx Democratic Club. Of Mr. Cunningham's role, he says: "I am not runningham countrywide."

What does it mean to run against the Democratic organization io a mid-dle-class area like the North Bronx? First, there is an apparent aftereffect of Watergate. "Ever since Watergate," says Mr. Marchiselli, "people are turned off on politics. It is tough enough to get them out for a regular election, much less for a primary. And unless you get out the vote in a primary how do you beat en organization?" Posters, for instance. Mr. Locascio's posters are all over the area; tacked high on poles, leaning inside store win-dows, pasted to buildings. Many of Mr. Marchiselli's posters are to be found crumpled in trash cans.

So an insurgent seeks out alties. Mr Marchiselli has the support of Bronx Bor ough President Robert Abrams, He has also been getting help from such unions as District Council 37, the Transport Workers Union and the United Federation of Teachers, which, elsewhere in the Browx are supporting organization candi-

And then he had to set up a headquar ters to compete in old-fashioned political techniques with the North Bronx Demo-cratic Club. So for two years, with his wife, Bernice, and volunteers, he has operated a storefront under the el along White Plains Road.

He estimates that this office has helpe about 1,000 persons in getting food stamps, forming tenant groups, stirring up agencies to pave streets, clean sewers and collect garbage. And in showing resi-dents how to fill out the countless forms that bloom with Government assistance. "Wheo people come to us," says Mr. Marchiselli, "we never ask them their

To refresh this recollection he has set up another storefront, where volunteers mail out his campaign literature and go through the registration lists, telephoning possible supporters—the kind of work that is dooe for a regular randidate at an established club. Concert

Israel Philharmonic Plays an All-Brahms Program

By PETER G. DAVIS The prevailing image of Zubin Mehta as a specialist in high German romenticism was reinforced Thursday night in Carnegie Hall as the New Philharmonic'a conductor-elect presided over an all-Brahms program, the second concert to be given in New York by the visiting Israel Philhar-monic Orchestra this week. The evening consisted of two weighty pieces, the First Piano Concerto, with Claudio Arrau as soloist, and the Fourth Symchony.

Mr. Arran has certainly played this concerto with more distinction on other occasions, and quite possibly Mr. Mehta has led a better account of the orchestral score, too. Somehow their collaboration at this concert never seemed to catch fire.

The performance was, on the whole, a leaden affair, with muddy textures, shapeless rhythmic definition and little thematic clarity—partly a problem of the work itself, but one that can be solved with judicious instrumental balancing. Mr. Arrau threaded his way through the murk in a rather cooly objective fashion, occasionally making a telling point here and there, but hardly with the power and concentration that he has brought to bear on this music in the past.

The Fourth Symphony made a much better impression. Mr. Mehta extracted as much lyrical warmth and drama as he could without overdoing things, and the orchestra responded with some very distinguished playing. It was not exactly a performance of searching profundity or of any spe-cial architectural lacidity, but in terms of sheerly beautiful orchestra sound there was much to admire.

Dance: Tapping Upbeat Program Jerry Ames, Past Master of the Art, and Company Are Seen at Marymount Manhattan Theater

Marymount Manhattan Theater Thursday evening as the Jerry Ames Pap Dance Company gave an upbeat and very happy program.

Mr. Ames is one of our very best tap dancers, favoring that high and light style that emerged when ballet's lifted torso made an impression on popular dancing. To be sure, the floor is still paramount as a sounding board, but of it has been added the possibilities of gestural expression. gestural expression.

Among a series of solos that linked the various parts of the program, "Per-tidia" most effectively showed Mr. Ames's special talents. It was a combination of torrero turns, slow taps and chattering flurries of steps that had Spanish flavoring along with a sinuous rhythmic phrasing. It was highly con-centrated in its use of space and lushly inventive within its self-imposed limita-

Miss Nordstrom, a former assistant to Richard Roud, program director of the New York Film Festival, also headed up the 1972 women's festival, held at the Pifth Average Cinema. She said that that 17-day event drew 10,000 people, and was "a success, but not a financial success, even though we broke the house record for a week at the Fifth Avenue Cinema." Enough money was realized, however, she Said, to pay her a salary of $5,200. Miss Nordstrom and Miss Laiman said that this year's festival was much more ambitious, with a larger theater, more entries to choose from (700, compared with 500 in 1972), ticket sales expected to hit 40,000, and a special fourday Women's Film Conference, at which the women film makers will discuss strategies for increasing the participation of women in the film industry. The conference will be held Sept. 17 to 20 at the Barbi-zoo Hotel for Women.

Among the feature films having their United States premieres dur-ing the festival are "Rising Target." by Barbara Frank of the United States, a documentary about the assassination of Robert F. Kennedy; "Daguerreotypes," by Agnes Varda of France, a poignant documentary about the Rue Daguerre, where Miss Varda has lived for many years; "Femmes Au Solcil," by Liliane Dreyfus of France, about three bourgeois couples on vacation in the south of France, and "Aloise" by Liliane de Kermadec nf France, starring Delphine Seyrig as a sensitive young woman who has a peryous breakdown at the start of World War I and remains io ao insane asylum for the rest of her life, and "Love Under the Crucifix," by Kinuyo Tanaka of Japan, about a young woman in feudal Japan who is desired by a powerful warlord, but loves a Christian instead. France, with five, has the largest contingent of women directors

"In France, there is more interest in making films about the heart and mind, and that's the kind of film women make," explained Miss Laiman, who is 30 and strongly resembles Lily Tomlin. "What the American film industry wants is adventure films with fistfights, car chases and two male buddles. That's not the kind of film women make.

Did the films selected for the festival have to have a feminist orientation? "No." Miss Laiman re-plied. "Our only criterion was artistic merit, but the 14-member selection committee was all women. and any film offensive to women was not selected."

Dyan Cannon, best known as an actress, but whn has been complaining lately about the lack of good roles available to actresses, will be at the festival with the short film she directed, 'Number One," about how the lives of four children are affected by the adults around them.

Miss Cannon will also take part, along with actresses Tamara Dob-son and Cornelia Sharpe, in a free panel discussion on the lack of roles for actresses, from 6 to 8 P.M. Tuesday, called "Where is the New Woman?" Six other free panels will be held during the fes at Public School 199, at 270 West. 70th Street, a five-mioute walk from the Cinema Studio. It will include such topics as "Black Women in Film," "Women and Film Un-" and "The Image of Women in Television.

Differences Cited

Other special events at the festival include a program of short films for the elderly, called "The Golden Years"; a program for chil-dren, called "Cartoons and Char-" and a retrospective of the films of Dorothy Arzner and Ida Lupino.

"It's amazing to see the difference in these two womeo's films," Miss Nordstrom said, "Miss Arzner made most of her films in the 1930's, when actresses like Katharine Hepburn and Joan Crawford had really good parts, and none of her women had a traditional women's role. Miss Lupino's films are from the 1950's, and her women all give up their careers for love and assume a traditional role."

Male directors are not excluded from the festival. Stig Bjorkman of Sweden is represented in the feature-film category with "The White Wall," about a day in the life of a divorced housewife, played by Har-riet Anderson, and there are seven short films by men.

Tour Planned Later

After the festival ends here, Miss to take it on a 10-city tour around the United States. They also plan to do a book on the festival, and to polish two screeoplays they have written together, "Coyote Kit," a women's humorous western, and "Unicorn," a robbery film with a strong woman character.

"Our goal is to make a statement that there can be interesting women characters in films," Miss Laiman said. "We want people to be able to go to the movies and find out that there are women who can be entertaining, and that they aren't just prostitutes and girl-

ROBERT PALMER

Richie Havens seemed to pop up at almost every folk and rock concert held in New York in the late 1960's. He would flail mightily at his guitar, which was tuned to an open chord, and sing the same set of songs, finishing off with "High Flying Bird" or "San Francisco Bay Blues." But his voice had an appealingly grainy quality and he always pleased his andiences, even when they had heard the same songs and arrangements dozens of

At the Bottom Line on Thursday Mr. Havens was still playing his guitar in open tuning and his audi-ence was still enthusiastic, so much so that they applauded wildly each time he strummed more vigorously than usual. He was still performing his old favorites, and both he and his audience were still satisfied with them. Mr. Havens also sang several new songs with band accompaniment. He is an affecting singer, but he can be difficult for a band to follow and for the most part his capable musicians were reduced to reinforcing the driving

Joan Armatrating also sang and although her songs are not yet familiar, they all have a relatively narrow, bluesy melodic range. She has a lovely voice, but her performance style is somewhat plain and her arrangements follow typical patterns. Between her lack of melodic variety and Mr. Havens's repetitions, the entire evening took on a decidedly static quality, like the incredibly long unfolding of a single pentatooic scale. Lauda's Return to Racing Spoiled by Rain at Monza

Wiki Lauda, recovering from burns grash during the German Grand Prix Aug. I, drove a Ferrari over the Winza autodrome course in a trial yesterday for tomorrow's Italian Grand Prix. Heavy rain pounded the track most of the day and the 27-year-old world champion from Austria drove only two laps before returning to the ram," he said, "I feel good. I seem to I'm here to train myself with a view toward winning races after Monza. There's no rancor between me and [Carlos] Reutemann." The Argentine recently was hired by Ferrari as a third driver behind Lauda and Clay Regazzoni of Switzerland, Lauda received permission yesterday from his physicians to compete and he then underwent Monza's mandatory medical examination. Tomorrow's 186.4-mile race is the 13th of 16 Grand Prix runs for 1976. During his enforced hospital stay, Lauda's 30-point lead was reduced to 2, by James Hunt of Britain, 58-56.

.. The champion's appearance at Monza was greeted with loud applause and shouts of "Lauda, Lauda," from one of the largest crowds in several years to watch the trials at the Italian track.

Charles O. Finley, the owner of the Oakland A's, sald he's going to the plate for his club as a designated hitter. He added that he has kept in con-dition by fighting with his players for the last five years, and that he is "in better shape than most of the A's Since Bill Veeck has seen fit to acti-vate Minnie Minoso, 53, I certainly feel I can swing a bat for the A's at 58.

The Metropolitan Amateur Athletic Union voted unanimouly yesterday to submit the name of Howard Davis Jr. of Glen Cove, L.L., for consideration for the Sullivan Award, given annually to America's outstanding amateur athlete. Davis, four times a New York Golden Gloves champion and the world amateur featherweight titleholder in 1974, won the gold medal in the lightweight boxing division at the Montreal Olympics. "Howard meets all the cri-teria for Sullivan honors—character, sportsmanship, leadership and an outstanding record in amateur sport," said Morris Weisshrot, the president of the A.A.U. Jets Inept at Sacking Quarterbacks

Special to The New York Times

HEMPSTEAD, L.I., Sept. 10-The weather was cloudy and uncertain as the Jets sloshed through their final workout today before they play their first regular-season game under the new regime.

One player who made it hack from limbo, where so many Jets found themselves this week was Don Buckey. The rookie wide receiver was reactivated after the club dropped Mike Hennigan, a new linebacker, who failed his physical examination.

Another Jet with a job guarantee, Jerome Barkum, stayed on the sidelines. The starting wide receiver has not recovered from a hamstring pull and may not play this week.

In a sense, the weather mirrored the team's outlook. For the Jets have no logical reasons to think they will do well Sunday at Cleveland. On the other hand, they know they won't be worse than their 1-5 preseason mark.

The quarterback the Jets will be facing is Mike Phipps. He has a kindred spirit in the Jets' Joe Namath. Each was sacked 28 times last year. Timing Is Important

The sack is an odd statistic, the only one a defensive lineman has next to his name in the weekly sheets prepared On the Jets, these numbers have been small.

"They're not all that significant."

Richard Neal, the right end.
"You look at Joe [Namath] and all the times he got sacked last year. He can't run out of the pocket, but even he wouldn't be sacked if he could hit his primary receiver."

Jets Are Sad at Sacks

Neal also had only one sack in exhihition play. The Jets got to opposing quarterbacks only 10 times in the six games. But in their last game alone, Namth and Richard Todd were downed 10 times. "Sacks?" said Jim Champion, the head of the defensive line, who still calls people he likes a "good ole boy." "A sack is something you get on passing downs. Now wait a minute. Don't laugh at that. That's not as simple as it sounds. When you must throw the hall is when you're likely to get sacked. You look at the record and I'll bet you find most sacks occur in the fourth quarter, against a team that's hehind."

To get to Phipps in time to sack him requires about 3½ seconds—and there are people in the way to get around. Still, despite what Phipps insists is an improved operation this season, he was sacked 10 times in six preseason games.

PLEASANTVILLE, N. Y., Sept. 10-Two days to go and the Giants are talking less about how much they dislike the Washington Redskins and more about how much they like themselves. Two days to go and they are talking more about the game in Washington being just an opener and not a grudge match with George Allen.

The Giants do not like the Redskins' coach—"He has rubbed our noses in the past," said Brad Van Pelt—nor do they like his won-lost record against them: 13-0 over all and 10-0 as the Washington coach. They have great re-spect for the Redskin cluh, which figures, after being defeated by Washington, 49-13, and 21-13, last season.

"We want the Redskins," had become almost the hattle cry of the young Giant team, especially after its 17-0 preseason victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers three weeks ago. Some players grew "Washington beards," to he shaved only if they beat the Redskins. But the tone now is less emotional, quieter. And more confident.

'An Emotional Game'

"We think we're going to have a pretty good season," said Doug Van Horn, the offensive right tackle who is one of only three players remaining from the last Giant team to beat the Redskins in 1970 (Pat Hughes and Bob Tucker are the others). Morton praised his offensive line, which in the last few years has had trouble with the Redskins, and said the key to the game was there, "up front." "If we beat them physically, we're go-ing to heat them. If they heat us physi-cally, they're going to beat us," he said. Morton Expresses Philosophy

"We're not going to get involved in doing things we don't do well." Morton "We're just going to run the football right up their gut, that's our philosophy. Not too many teams have that philosophy. Even Pittshurgh uses Franco Harris a lot to the outside. We're more like Los Angeles, a power team. They know what to expect."

Rule 14 of the United States Tennis Association handbook states that "if a player serves out of turn the player who ought to bave served shall serve as soon as the mistake is discovered; but all points scored before such discovery shall be reckoned."

Such oversights are rare, but not impossible in the tense atmosphere of a major match. Tennis historians still re-call that four decades ago Helen Wills

By JOSEPH DURSO

The New York Yankees, busily revieving their own history this summer. fired a few salutes to the past while winning, 6-4, in Yankee Stadium last

They gave a curtain call to Henry Aaron io his final appearance here with the Milwaukee Brewers. They cheered their own senior citizen, Roy White, who tripled for the 1,500th hit of his career. They even ooted that it was the 420 birthday of Roger Maris, the last Yankee to win the home-run title.

But the noisiest salute of the eve-ning was firedby one of the new mercenaries in Yankee uniforms, Oscar Gamble, who his a grand-slam home run in the eighth inning that led a five-run rally and gave the Yankees the victory over the Brewers.

For the Yankees, who are expected to place tickets on sale for the American League playoff this weekend, the late outburst maintained their sums momentum as they pursued their first pennant in 12 years. They now have won five straight games, 14 of their last 18 and 22 of their last 30— and even Catfish Hunter got a piece of the action.

Hunter Gets 15th

Catfish, who symbolizes the rich im ports of the "new" Yankee era, had not won a ball game in 25 days. In fact, he had won only 14 games and lost 14 and gave every indication that he would finish the summer below 20 victories for the first time in six years. Even last night, be was trailing by 2-1 as the Yankees went to bat in the bottom of the eighth.

Then Mickey Rivers led off by outrunning a grounder to deep shortstop, and, playing for one run and a tie, White bunted him to second. When Thurman Munson followed with a sbot inside first base, it looked as if the Yankees were up to their old tricks in the late mnings. But George Scott made a dazzling, diving grab in the dirt and, sitting on the ground behind the bag, threw to the pitcher for the out.
The pitcher, Jim Slaton, now needed

The Nets completed the deal for Archibald, who grew up in the South Bronx and played at DeWitt Clintoo High School, by signing Brian Taylor to a four-year, no-cut contract and then trading him to the Kings. The Kings also received Jim Eakins, a 6-11 backup center, and the Nets' 1977 and 1978 first-round draft choices. Taylor, 6-2, a backcourt man, played four seasons with the Nets after leav-ing Princeton following his junior year. After approving his reported $750,000 contract, Taylor left for Green Bay, Wis., to watch his brother Bruce, a cornerback with the San Francisco 49ers, play against the Packers Sunday.

It cost the Knicks $200,000 to pry McMillian, one of the best "small" forwards, loose from the Braves, who are reducing their payroll. New York also picked up the two remaining years of a five-year contract McMillian had of a nve-year contract memilian had signed with the Lakers before they had traded him to the Braves in 1973 for Elmore Smith. while the Knicks were officially announcing the deal and introducing Mc-Millian at a news conference, Bradley announced his 10th season with the Knicks would be his "final year." In speaking of McMillian, his eventual replacement, Bradley said, "I'm 33 years old and, looking at it from a personal standpoint. I don't have as much at stake. Realistically, Jin' is a resitive addition to the team and if I'm beoched because he's made a starter, I'd be bappy to give him a breather. "If you come off the beach with experience, it helps the team more than a rookie would. I always thought a team bad five men and more, and now I'm in a position to practice what I've been preaching for years. Jim is a real competitor. After playing against hun for six seasoos. I can't think of any player who is smarter and more-unselfish than he is."

Bradley said he would consider politics or business after his retirement. McMillian Has Confidence

Bradley and McMillian have similar skills and played similar roles for their teams. Neither are one-on-one players and both play "textbook" basketball and work hard.

"I think I'll fit in well with Coach [Red] Hoizman's team coocept," 'said McMillian. "I know Bradley and I will be compatible because our styles are alike. Coming home again gives me a chance to play with some intelligent players again. I have always felt I can play the particular style offensively and defensively that the Knicks have." Eddie Donovan, the Knicks' general manager, bas now obtained McMillian for the two teams that be has been as-sociated with. "Jimmy is the kind of player a junior high school coach would want to take his team to watch," said Donovan. "He epitomizes every coach's teaching." Burns Leads; Nicklaus Fails To Make Cut

PINEHURST, N. C., Sept. 10 (AP)-Jack Nickiaus, a winner last week in the World Series of Golf, hit one shot into a woman's purse, missed the cut for the fast time io six years and George Burns stormed into a two-stroke lead today in the rain-interrupted sec-ond round of the $200,000 World open golf tournament.
Nicklaus, the defender, and the pre-tourney favorite, failed to qualify for the floal two rounds for the first time in 105 tournaments, stretching back to the Kaiser open in October of 1970. He had an erratic 74 and a 36-hole total of 146, four over par. He was two over for the tournament—a score good enough to qualify for the last two rounds—but hit his second shot arto a woman's purse on his 15th hole. He commented: "Now, that's a bad lie," bogeyed the next hole from a bunker,

The string was broken, just short Byron Nelson's record of 113. "It's been a loog time," Nicklaus said. "I worked barder to make the cut here than I did to win $100,000 last week. I really did."

Burns Has Putting Touch

Burns, a long-time amateur star just completing his rookie year at the age of 27, broke out of a three-way tie for the top spot. He took a two-stroke lead with a three-under-par 68 and a 133 total, nine under par for two trips over the 7,007-yard No. 2 course at the Pinehurst Country Club.

"Another solid round, another good putting round," said the 210-pound Burns, a former Maryland football Burns, who let a chance slip away to win the Houston Open earlier this year, one-putted seven times. He has used only 53 strokes on the sloping, humpbacked greens in two rounds.

"I just haven't made any mistakes with my putter," he said, but added, "It's still early in the week." Two shots back of him was Hale Irwin, runner-up to Nicklaus last week

Rain Brings a Deluge Of Changes at Belmont

"My program looks like a Chinese crossword puzzle," said a bettor in Belmont Park's clubhouse yesterday as changes kept cropping up as the afternoon progressed.

The racing program, in fact, was a study in changes. A heavy At the rainfall just before the first race found the seven starters competing on a "wet-fast" surface. The track's condition was changed to "good" for the second race, "muddy" for the third and finally "stoppy" for the rest of the card.

The changing track caused trainers to scratch 10 horses. And, because the grass was considered too slippery for safety, all three turf events on the program were shortened and shifted to the main courses. There also were 10 jockey changes. In the eighth race, there were two made for Jacques Who, ... Angel Cordero, the original scheduled rider, being repisced first by Patrick Day and then by Eddie Maple.

..... 10 Entered in Futurity Today This also has to be a study in patience," said the horseplayer in the clibbouse, as he drew s line with his pencil across the names of Bobby Murcer and Silver Badge, the two 5-year-olds announced as scratches midway through the afternoon. "I should have brought my secretary." With the forecast for this afternoon calling for dry weather, few changes are expected on this afternoon's card. The program will feature the 87th running of the rich Futurity, for which 10 juveniles have been named. If 11 start, the seven-furlong event will be

Mets Defeat Cardinals Behind Lolich, 4 to 3

By THOMAS ROGERS Special to The New York Times

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 10-The Mets, who had scored 29 runs on 41 hits io a three-game sweep of the Cubs in Chicago earlier in the week, were hoping to keep up their torrid hitting to-night as they opened a three-game series against the Cardinals at Busch Memorial Stadium

The Mets scored their fourth straight victory, 4-3.

Mickey Lolich, who had not won a game since Aug. 8, was the starting pitcher for New York. In his last five starts, the portly left-hander had lost twice and three times had oot been involved in the decision. He took a 7-12 won-lost record into the game.

on-lost record into the game.
Opposing him was John Denny, a 23-year-old right-hander who had topped the Mets four times in his twoyear major league career, once this season. In June he shut cut New York on three hits, 3-0. He had won his last three decisioos to run his record to 9-6. Boisclair Opens With Hit Boisciair Opens with Hit Bruce Boisciair opened the game with a single to center field but was quickly doubled off first base on a liner by Mike Phillips to Garry Templeton, the shortstop. John Milner then cracked a single to right, the 16th hit in his last 32 times at bat, but Dave Kingman mounted out grounded out.

The Cardinals also victims of a line-drive double play. Templeton singled with one out, but Lou Brock lined to Phillips, and the second baseman's throw to first doubled Templeton.

throw to first doubled Templeton.

Singles by Joho Steams in the second and Bud Harrelson in the thirdwent to waste. Then the Mets posed a real threat in the fifth. Ed Kranepool led off with a single. After Steams had grounded out, Leo Foster walked, and Harrelson was hit by a pitch, filling the bases. Mike Tyson then made a lunging pickup of a grounder by Lolich and started a rally-ending double play.

The only hits that Lolich permitted through the first five innings were Templeton's single in the first and a single by Dermy in the third. No Cardinai reached second base. But the Cardinals put together three hits in the sixth for the game's first

Denny got his second hit, a bloop into center field. Jerry Mumphrey slapped a hard grounder that bounced off Foster's arm at third base for a double. Templeton lofted a short pop-into left field that Harrelson attempted to catch with his back to the plate. But the hall popped ou of nia glove, and Templeton was credited with a double, which scored Denny. Loich then afuned Brock and retired Ted Simmons on a grounder to avert further scores.

The Mets bounced back with two runs to take the lead in the seventh.
Kranepool opened with a single, and Pepe Mangual ran for him. Mangual stole second base on the second pitch to Stearns. The Met catcher than grounded to Tyson and beat the throw to first, where the ball went past Denny for an error, allowing Mangual to score the tying run and Stearns to more to second to score the tying run and Stearns to move to second.

After Billy Baldwin, hatting for Eoster, had struck out, Harrelson bounced a hit over second base. Tysoo knocked the ball down, but, before he could recover it, Stearns had scored.

Lolich wasthen hit on his left elbow by a pitch and had to leave the game. He was taken by Dr. Stan London, the Cardinals' physician, to Jewish Hospital for X-rays.

Soccer Honors to Skyhawks Ron Newman of the champion Los Angeles Skyhawks was named American Soccer League coach of the year and Jim Hinch the Skyhawks' forward, named the A.S.L.'s outstanding player yesterday. Both selections were made by the league's coaches, said Bob Cousy, the A.S.L. commissioner.

Phils Continue Their Slide As Cubs Post a 3-2 Triumph

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 10 (UPI)— Rick Reuschel, who always seems to be at his best against Philadelphia, beat the Phillies for the ninth time in 10 career decisions tonight as the Chicago Cubs triumphed, 3-2. The loss was the Philhes' 12th in their last 14 games.

Chicago snapped a 1-1 tie in the fifth when Joe Wallis singled, advanced on Mick Kelleher's ground out and scored on Rick Mooday's single. Bill Madlock hit bis 15th home run of the year in

"that I almost like Donovan season, Then with a smile he added, "For a time, I couldn't forgive him for switching me from the warmth of Los Angeles to the cold of Buffalo."

One of Bradley's problems the last two seasons was that he bad no one to set the "picks" as Willis Reed and Dave DeBusschere used to do for him that would make the way for jump

"Although there is a similarity in our playing styles," said McMillian. "I don't need the pick as much as he does. He came into the league with that situation and he got spoiled. I never had that luxury. I remember when I used to-run into Dave DeBusschere's picks, and if I was lucky to get by him, I'd run into Willis Reed."

Archibald was granted his wish of finishing his playing career in New York with his trade to the Nets. Duriog the summer he had expressed displeasure with playing in Kansas City.

the eighth for what proved to be the deciding run.

Philadelphia scored its second run in the eighth. Tim McCarver, a pinch-mitter, walked took second on Dave Cash's single moved to third on Larry Bowa's sacrifice and scored on Mike Schmidt's sacrifice fly. A single by Bowa and Schmidt's double had given the Philles a 1-0 lead in the first. The Cubs evened the score in the second when George Mitterwald singled, moved to second on Manny Trillo's grounder and scored on a single by Wallis.

Jim Kaat pitched eight innings for the Phillies. He lost his 12th game in 23 decisions.

Orioles 4, Indians 3

BALTIMORE, Sept. 10 (UPI) Bob Grich singled in two runs and Ross Grimsley and Dyar Miller combined on an eight-hitter tonight in leading the Baltimore Orioles to a 4-3 triumph over the Cleveland Indians. Grimsley pitched seven innings and gave up six hits in notching his seventh victory in his nine games. Miller took over in the eighth and allowed one hit in gaining his seventh save.

Consecutive singles by Reggie Jackson, Lee May and Ken Singletoo gave the Orioles a 1-0 lead in the first. Grich hit his two-run single in the second after Aody Mora singled and Paul Blair doubled. Baltimore scored what proved to be the deciding run in the fourth when Mark Belanger singled, stole his 23d base and scored on an errogene

The Expos staked him to a 2-0 lead in the second off the loser, John Can-delaria, with the help of run-scoring singles by Larry Parrish and Pete MacKanin. Montreal scored two more runs in the third off Candelaria with the help of a double by Parrish and a throwing error by Frank Taveras, the Cardinal sbortstop.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 10-A lot of Pittsburgh linemen are going to fall and take their lumps trying to assist Tony Dorsett in his quest for the Heis-Trophy. But they apparently don't Mand it a hit. They feel they have a share in the action.

John Pelusi, Pittsburgh's senior cen-fer, and Jim Corbett, the Panthers' tight end, are two of the men who must hit and fall if Dorsett is to become the outstanding college player of the season. They will start hitting tomorrow when Dorsett and Pitt open at Notre Dame.

"I think it would be wonderful to say you blocked for the Heisman 'Trophy winner for two years," Pelusi -said. "It'a a great feeling to look up -after you've gone down and see Hawk Dorsett going for a touchdown."

Corbett feels "it's oot realistic for a lineman to think he'd win the Heisman. But to be on a team where the Heisman's at has got to he gratifying. 'if he doesn't get it, I'd be as disappointed as Tony because I'd feel I let him

Ohviously, Dorsett or Ricky Bell or any other runner can't do it alone. It's wise for s back to understand this.

Corbett said: "When Tony got the 303 yards against Notre Dame last season he had eight yards on the last run. He came into the huddle and said, 'It'e yours, too.' He realizes he can't get 100 yards a game without us."

Corbett learned a lot of things in the Pitt huddle. He found out that Dorsett is getting better assistance these days. "I've heen in that huddla for three years now and the players are getting higger and higger in that circle each year," he said. "And they're faster, too." Never before had a player dooe such damage to the pride of the Irish as T.D. did in Pitt's 34-20 victory last year. "It will not happen again," the Irish claimed. It probably won't happen tomorrow.

Dorsett said: "I heard Coach Dan Devine say I wouldn't get 300 yards against Notre Dame again. I think he's being very realistic. I'm not going out there expecting 300 yards. My goal this season is 100 yards a game and what-

At 100 yards a game Dorsett will easily set a National Collegiste Athletic Association career rusning record. At that pace he will hecome tha first player ever to run more than 1,000 yards a season for four straight years. At 100 yards a game this tailhack, who hits the middle as well as the outside, will probably win the Heisman Trophy. He enters this game with 4,134 yards in three seasons.

He must get off to a good start tomorrow. Running against' Notre Dame at Notre Dame is mighty difficult even if you are Tony Dorsett.

Team Canada, Facing Elimination, To Play the Soviet Squad Tonight

By ROBIN HERMAN Special to The New York Timo

TORONTO, Sept. 10-Unless Team Canada heats or ties the Soviet Union's national team tomorrow night in Msple Leaf Gardens, the Canada Cup of Hockey, in its first year, will end up in the hands of either the Russians or Czechoslovaks. By virtue of their 1-0 upset of the Canadians last night In Montreal, the Czechoslovaks earned a spot in the two-of-three-game final series that begins here Monday. The Canadians, who created this six-team international tournament to prove definitively their world status in the sport, are now ironically in the position of having to fight to get into the finals.

Walt Hodges of Central Michigan ran for 1,025 vards in the 1975 season. Time for Boh Blackman to have more than medium success with the Illini. Jayhawks recovered from upset by Cougars last year and got to a bowl. This hunch of Cougars also want to upset a team from state of Kansas. And some experts feel that Michigao will be the No. I team in the land. Any challenge to Ohio State or Michigan in the Big Teo may be Minnesota. Today's TV game in East is Irish defense against Tony Dorsett's running. Good O! Woody doesn't have too many frieods among Spartans these days. Somebody here will enjoy being tied for Big Teo lead for a week anyway. Gamble Slam Tops Brewers For Yanks, 6-4

Gamble is a 27-year-old left-hander from Alabama who played for Chicago, Philadelphia and Cleveland before the Yankees' vacuum cleaner swept him up last winter in a trade for Pat Dobson. Since then, he has obliged by hitting 15 home runs, though he wasn't eveo sure he had hit a grand slam at

"I knew there were a lot of guys on hase," he said later, "hut I didn't realize I had a grand slam 'till I got back to the dugout and the guys start-ed yelling. All 1 wanted to do in that situation was get a hit and knock in a couple of runs. But then 1 stopped and watched it go out, and I knew it was gone."

"It was a fastball up and in," mourned 5laton, who had outpitched Hunter until the Yankees roused themselves and protected their 12½-game lead over the Baltimore Orioles in the American League's Eastern Division.

The Yankees opened the evening with only 25 games left to play and with a touch of senatorial courtesy. They called the 42-year-old Aaron out of the Milwaukee dugout while Catfish was warming up and announced to the 16,607 spectators that Henry, 755 home runs and all, was "playing on this field for the last time" in his career

"I'm glad that game is being held in Toronto," said a cah driver from Mootreal, where only the bilingualism issue stirs more passion than a Team Canada hockey game, "because people would jump off tall buildings here if we lost." The Canada Cup started as a routine series for the Canadian all-star team as it moved with comparative ease through its first three games. But the perils of a single-round rohin tournament are evident now to the Canadians, as their prospects have changed overnight by virtue of one loss. .

Having played four games, the Czechoslovaks lead, with 7 points, fol-lowed by Canada, with 6, and the Soviet Union, with 5. Sweden has 3 points, Finland 2 and Team USA 1. Finland and Team USA meet tomorrow afternoon in Montreal in a game that will decide the tournament's last-place team. Czechoslovakia meets Sweden in Quebec city for a contest that affects only the round-robin standing and consequently the amount of prize money awarded the teams. Team USA, which lost to the Soviet Union in Philadelphia last night, 5-0, has yet to win a game. Canada and the Soviet Union have had a heated hockey rivalry since the Soviet Union took up Canada's national sport after World War II. Out of frustration. Canada finally withdrew from the world championships in 1969 hecause its hest players, the profession-als, were always harred from participating, thus preventing Canada from fielding a team representative of the country's actual strength in the sport. Year after year an "amateur" European team, usually that of the 5oviet Union, would take the championship.

The defenders can normally assume that if the declarer leads trumps it is oot in their interests to do so, and vice versa. But there are times when thie generalization breaks down, and it did so on the diagramed deal from the Summer National Championships in Sait Lake City.

North's aggressive action on the second round was largely responsible for reaching a borderline slam. The popular choice with the North hand would be a splinter hid of four clubs, promising a spade fit, elam interest, and at most a singleton club.

Four diamonds was the converse, a fragment hid, seldom seen nowadays. Jumps to the six-level in response to Blackwood always promise a void, and did so here. It is not clear whether North was at the same time suggesting hearts as an alternative trump suit, or was simply showing two aces on the usual Blackwood principle.

Difficult Decision Posed

The declarer was Phillip Martin of Gamerville, N. Y., and he had a difficult decision at the third trick in playing six spades. He captured the cluh king with the ace, throwing a heart from the dummy, and led a trump to the queen

Martin now considered cashing three diamond winners and the heart ace, and following with a cross-ruff. This would have succeeded if he had combined the plan with a heart finesse. He chose in-stead to lead the spade jack, and East could now have guaranteed the defeat of the contract by winning with the king and returning a trump.

But in such circumstances it is usually right for the defeoder to hold up his trump winner, and East did so. This gave the declarer a reprieve, and he

New Era for U.S.C. Eleven

A new era with an old gimmick starts for the University of Southern Califor-oia tonight when it opens its 1976 foot-ball season against Missouri in the Los ceeding John McKay, whose 16-year regime was the most successful in Trojan history: the old gimmick—a super ruoning hack who is a top prospect for the Heisman Trophy—is on hand too, in the person of Ricky Bell, a 21-yearold Texas-born Californian who stands 6 feet 2 inches tall eod weighs 218

Bell hopes to match the honors won hy Mike Garrett (1965) and O. J. Simpson (1968), while continuing a ball-carrying tradition that also iocludes Fraok Gifford, Clarence Davis and Anthony

Last year, the hot name in California was Chuck Muncie, up at Berkeley, and the Helsman Trophy winner was Archie Griffin of Ohio State. But Bell ran the ball farther than either Muncie or Griffin, with less help (since Muncie's team also had good passing, and Griffin's a better line). In fact, Bell's 1975 performance was remarkable on several levels. As a freshman, he was a defensive player, an outside lioebacker, while Anthony Davis was running wild from tailback.

As e sophomore, he moved in as fullback alongside Davis, carried the ball ooce for every six times Davis did, and did a lot of blocking.
So last year was his first as a tailback

Bell's total was 1,875 yards, and he added 82 in a Liberty Bowl victory over Texas A. & M. But in that game, he also went 76 yards for a touchdowo after catching a screen pass. Bell had three 200-yard games last year, and seven others over 120, even though his team's passing ettack was pitlful (e completion rate of only 35 percent, with only 50 completed—and 10 intercepted—in 12 games). By midsesson, defenses were stacked entirely against him. Bell personally gained wice as much ground rushing as the team did passing, and accounted for half his team's total offense.

U.S. REJECTS A PLAN

New York City Hoped to Finance Construction of New Facilities by Selling Bonds to Builders

By GLENN FOWLER

The Federal Government has rejected a novel plan for New York City to finance construction of large sewage-treatment plants in Brooklyn and Staten Island by selling bonds to the contractors who successfully bid for the jobs.

The city had hoped the arrangement would permit the completion of a waterpollution control plant at Oakwood Beach in Staten Island and the construction of similar plant in the Red Hook section of Brooklyn. The total estimated cost was 5540 million, of which three-fourths was to be financed by Washington and the remaining cost was to be split between New York State and the city.

The projects would generate 7,000 jobs in the construction industry, which is badly depressed. Mayor Beame said yesterday as he disclosed the turndown by John R. Quaries Jr., deputy head of the United States Environmental Protection

The plan was devised because the city has no capital funds on hand and is pre-cluded from selling bonds through normal channels because of the contioning fisca crisis. Under the plan, contractors would agree to accept 10-year city bonds as partial payment for their work.

The city had hoped to get construction started by having the successful bidders buy $56.8 million worth of the bonds. The rest of the city's one-eighth share of the cost was to come from Federal and state reimbursement for eogineering expenses already incurred. An alternative plan was to persuade II large commercial banks to buy the boods and resell half of them to the low bidders on the cootruction work.

Io either case the cootractors were to collect interest on the bonds but were to leave them in city custody in lieu of the customary "retainage," to guarantee completion of the projects.

Mr. Quarles objected on several points. One was his conclusion that bids would be inflated by contractors because of the risk of bond default by the city, and that 75 percent of any such increase would be borne by Washington under the costbaring formula.

Eric Raston, an assistant to Mayor Beame, said the city disagreed with Mr. Quarles's reasoning. Contractors are des-perate for work, he said, and bidding competition on major projects is fierce Further delay in financing the projects he contended, would cause more construction workers to leave the city.

Davina Sheffield Prince Charles's "ideal"?

SI-year-old former professional iceskater who started making Space Shoes in Greenwich Village 30 years ago, married Anna Veronika Schloegl, his assistant for the last 15 years. It was the first marriage for the Czechoslo-vakian-born bride, who emigrated from Germany to Brazil in 1948 and came here 10 years later. The couple first met on an ice rink and still skate frequently.

A surfing date in Devon for Prince Charles and Davina Sheffield seems to have inspired the latest British press speculation that the 25-year-old com-moner most seriously fits the "fall, slim and long-legged" qualifications the Prince, 27, once gave for his "ideal." A relative of the Duke of Beaufort, Miss Sheffield has been a guest at Queen Elizabeth II's Balmoral Castle in Scotland. Her father, an Army major, died eight years ago and her mother was found murdered in March. "She's a very nice girl," said a house-keeper at the family's Oxfordshire mansioo. "It's difficult to imagine her as Queen of England."

I Lost 83 Pounds in Less Than 120 Days

Dear Reader:

Twenty-five years ago (5 years before I became a book publisher) I began to fatten up.

I became one of those overweight people who never stopped trying to reduce -- and never succeeded for long. I tried Weight Watchers and 1,200 calorie diets and Metrecal and even those daily shots in the buttocks. None of them worked for me. They all took off some weight and the weight always came back.

Nothing worked for long. I decided to face the fact that I would be fat for the rest of my life.

I had given up. Or almost. Last January, quite by accident, I read about some research being done at Harvard Medical School (among other places) and a new breakthrough approach to weight reduction. The findings were being put to practical use by Dr. Robert Linn in Broomall, Pa.

I phoned Dr. Linn. He said he would be opening an office in about two months. I couldn't wait. The next morning I drove 120 miles to see him. I began his program that My weight was 240 pounds when I began. Less than 120 days later, I weighed 157.

One result is that I feel wonderful. Better than I've felt in many years. My friends tell me I look better too. I'm thin again. I did it without pills or medication. I did it swiftly and safely.

THE LAST CHANCE DIET (-- When everything else has failed) by Dr. Robert Linn will be published in October. Demand for this book has been so intense that we've already shipped 73,000 copies to the bookshops before publication! Your local bookseller should have copies now. Get one today. Dr. Linn's program changed my life. It could change yours....

If for any reason your bookseller can't supply you, you may order a copy directly from the publisher by sending $10 plus 50¢ for postage and handling. Address Dept: T-3, Lyle Stuart Inc. 120 Enterprise Avenue, Secaucus, N.J. 07094.

Military Honor

The continuing investigations of the cheating charges at West Point have raised questions about the manner in which the Military Academy's honor code is enforced. Defenders of West Point traditions are angered by any .. suggestion that the code's rigidity may have contributed to the moral as well as pedagogical confusion which in Tilm has led to the allegation of cheating hy at least 200 filembers of last year's junior class.

In their rush to protect the code against all criticism, let alone modification, military conservatives and their civilian allies tend to speak of a soldier'a honor as if it were a thing of absolute purity that sets the uniformed services apart from all other institutions.

Given the military's awesome responsibilities and powers, honesty and integrity are indeed essential qualities if its leaders are to he trusted with the vital mission of the nation's defense. But those qualities cannot be guaranteed by so simple a device as a code that says "cadets will not lie, cheat, nr steal nor tolerate Those who do," without some more sophisticated guidelines. It is hard to believe that no cadets-and no senior officers-ever deviate from the absolute truth or that their peers instantly demand their dismissal if they dojust as it seems absurd to suggest that the cadets who allegedly discussed that now notorious take-home engineering test in their harracks were the first to have been guilty of such a borderline transgression.

American military honor, as an ideal and as a working model, might he better served if attention were focused more sharply on the questions of honorable behavior raised by different types of violations. For -example, the Marine Corps last week ended its investiga-"tion at San Diego of the fatal beating in the course of basic training of a mentally retarded recruit. Calling the case "a regrettable incident," the officers in charge of the inquiry closed the matter with mere reprimands of a colonel, two captains and a drill instructor.

On the face of it, there may seem to be no connection between the expulsion of cadets on duhious charges of cheating even as the investigation of the matter remains incomplete, and the reprimands of those who by their actions, default or training policles were directly or indirectly responsible for the death of that unfortunate recruit. There may nevertheless he some with an active interest in honorable military behavior who find it easier to accept a humane modification of the West Point thonor code than to view the San Diego verdict as compatible with military honor.

Thai Student Victory

:- Life aloog the klongs, the charming odoriferous Wenice-like canals of Bangkok, undoubtedly exercises a whether it was this that brought the recent sudden return from Taiwan of the strongman of the military regime ousted by a student revolt in 1973. Field Marshal Praphas Charusathien. Nor is it likely, as he claimed when discovered, that he came for a medical checkup. There are better doctors elsewhere.

It is suspected, therefore, that the former police chief, interior minister and deputy prime minister returned for political purposes. His presence precipitated student demonstrations, angry parliamentary debate, and repeated Cabinet meetings of Prime Minister Seni Pramoj's coalition Government, which depends for its majority on three military-controlled political parties containing friends and former subordinates of Marshal Praphas.

" Five Cabinet ministers—all of them former generals called on the marshal and negotiated his departure. But with universities closed by student demonstrations and clashes with right-wing groups, which took two student lives and wounded more than 40, the schedule was accelerated. Marshal Praphas left for Taiwan as suddenly as he had come, escorted by two generals and others.

: The extraordinary incident has weakened further Mr. Seni'a coalition Government—the third in less than two years of parliamentary rule-which has suffered from drift, division and indecisiveness. That this may have been the chief objective of Marshal Praphas's return was suspected by Mr. Seni, who waroed of a possible "plot by some people to create confusion and jeopardize the stability of the Government." One theory is that rightwing politicians may have been seeking to provoke chaos to force the army to take charge.

If that was the game, it clearly has boomeranged. Confronted with student determination to preserve Thailand's infant democrary, the current military leaders moved quickly to get Marshal Praphas out of the country and to liquidate the crisis. In so doing, they have given notice that they have no desire at this point to resume responsibility for governing the nation against student and left-wing opposition, which would guarantee further street clashes and bloodshed.

Peyser Over Buckley

"Whatever their political affiliations, New Yorkers are entitled to a chnice hetween the best Senatorial candidates the respective parties can offer. We have already stated our preference for Daniel P. Moynihan in Tuesday's Democratic primary. On the Republican side nur strong hope is that the nomination will go, not to Senator James L. Buckley, whose one term in office has been largely negative and undistinguished, but to Representative Peter A. Peyser.

A moderate Republican, Mr. Peyser combed the country for support of this city in the days of its deepest trouble while Mr. Buckley was cheerfully prepared to see it go into hankruptcy. On such issues as mass transit. public education and consumer protection, especially in the price of food, he was as regularly to be found among those who voted for constructive legislation as Senator Buckley was to he found voting against it.

Once again New Yorkers are being called upon to judge the judges in the Democratic primary on Sept. 14. and later on Election Day. Many of the candidates have not sat on the bench; most of the names on the hallot will be wholly unfamiliar to voters.

Because the Democratic primary in New York City frequently insures November victory as a result of the party's large registration, The Times is making recommendations for selected judicial offices. Five candidates are running to replace retiring Surrogate S. Samuel DiFalco. They include; Supreme Court Justice Samuel A. Spiegel; Supreme Court Justice Alfred M. Ascione: Civil Court Judge Arthur E. Blyn; Civil Court Judge Stanley P. Danzig, and Marie M. Lambert, an attorney.

All the candidates are pledged to reform the practices in the Surrogate's Court.

The two best-qualified candidates are Samuel A. Spiegel, who has the Liberal Party endorsement, and Arthur E. Blyn, a respected jurist who shares a "preferred" Citizens Union rating with Justice Spiegel.

We recommend the election of Justice Spiegel because of his judicial temperament, experience and scholarship. He is one of the most highly regarded Supreme Court judges in the state, an able administrator, and has the ability to perform well in this specialized court.

Manhattan-Civil Court

In the First District, Stanley L. Sklar, an attorney, is opposed by John Picariello, chief adoption clerk of the Manhattan Surrogate's Court. Because of his broad experience in Civil Court litigation, we recommend

In the Third District, Lester Evens, executive director of the Bedford-Stuyvesant Community Legal Services Corporation, is running against Beverly S. Cohen, a law assistant in the Civil Court. Lester Evens is preferred because of his extensive knowledge and trial practice.

In the Fourth District, Margaret Taylor, who teaches in the criminal law clinic at New York University School of Law, is opposed by Jack Turret, chief of the law division of the Manhattan Surrogate Court. Miss Taylor is preferred hecause of her litigation experience and

In the Seventh District, Herman Cahn, an attorney, is running against Alex Colgan, a law assistant in the Supreme Court, and Harry R. Pollak, an attorney. Because of his extensive practice in the Civil Court, we prefer Herman Cahn.

The Bronx-Civil Court

In this countywide contest, there are four candidates running for three vacancies. They include Burton G. Hecht, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee in the State Assembly; Martin B. Brooklyn-Surrogate's Court

Three candidates are competing: Daniel Eisenherg, a specialist in the field of trusts and estates; Abraham Schulman, an able Civil Court judge, and Bernard M. Bloom, an open advocate of patronage. Because of his scholarship and ability, we recommend Daniel Eisenberg.

Brooklyn-Civil Court

For three countywide vacancies, eight candidates are competing: Martha Gihbell, a specialist in landlord and tenant law; Ellintt Golden, Chief Assistant District Attorney of Kings County; Ahraham Reingold, an arbitrator in the Small Claims Part of the Civil Court and adjunct professor at New York Law School; Bernard Fuchs, an attorney who has served in Small Claims; Stanley J. Glantz, law secretary in the Civil Court; Samuel W. Held, an attorney; Ruth Moskowitz, an attorney with Legal Aid Society experience, and Snlomon A. Shapiro, an attorney.

We prefer Martha Gibbell, Elliott Golden and Ahraham Reingold hecause of their requisite experience.

In the Fifth District, Barry Hurowitz, a Civil Court specialist, is opposed by Anthony Dallacas and Gahriel M. Krausman, attorneys. We prefer Mr. Hurowitz hecause of hia extensive litigation background.

Queens-Civil Court

For three countywide vacancies, the candidates include: Benjamin Glass and Joscelyn E. Smith, both of whom have served as arbitrators in the Small Claims Part of the Civil Court; Joseph Rosenzweig, a trial attorney in the Civil Court, and Nicholas L. Pitaro, a private practitioner. We prefer Benjamin Glass, Joscelyn E. Smith and Joseph Rosenzweig.

Letters to the Editor

Medicaid Surveillance and Control

"As one who has just returned from California to review, at the request of the state, "scandals of Medicaid," let me agree that the problems are nationwide and complex.

Our unit took a team of ten clinicians to examine the quality of health care provided in one of the prepaid plans that the state has encouraged to care for Medi-Cal recipients on a capitation basis. The intent was to contain costs by paying nonprofit corporations a fixed annual amount per individual and hence discourage unnecessary services.

Unfortunately, these newer California programs have also fallen into disrepute, in large measure due to the failure of the state to place payments nn any rational basis or to provide adequate administrative and professinnal standards and monitoring. The particular program we assessed was found to be providing an adequate level of medical care.

Yet this is only half the story. Large amounts of money are paid, and yet it is not known how many people get how many, or what kind of, services. -The inference is that only a small proportion of the aligible patients receive service and that exorbitant amounts of money are reverting to the plan's organizers. Furthermore, the legal intricacles of interlocking profit-making corporations obscure accountability. Utilization of health care, the quality of care and the cost of services are intimately related, and these factors fail to receive equal attention. One of the major problems in the Medicaid system is that virtually nn one has established a data system tn track what has been done to and for patients. The emphasis has all been on duliar amounts paid to providers, though no one has faced the explosive issue of how much is equitable for a provider to receive from public

Do multiple patient visits mean an unresolved problem that needs consultation? One electrocardiogram for a patient over fifty years of age is acceptable for a base line; is there justification for ten? Who is responsible for seeing that all children under five are receiving adequate maintenance care?

In our pluralistic society, healthservice delivery systems will probably continue to embrace both fee-for-service and capitation programs. It is inconceivable that in this day of advanced technology an adequate surveillance system cannot be put in place, that patients cannot receive adequate levels of medical care and that restraints cannot be placed on those who obtain inordinate amounts nf public dollars for care to the

'The Welfare Rip-Off'

With all due respect to the Moss committee Medicaid report, it bas no new revelations regarding Medicaid nr the larger welfare rip-off; nor does it begin to address itself to the broad areas pursued by the New York State Welfare Inspector General during

Review of OWIG's annual reports for those years will provide sufficient evidence of the city's mismanagement, along with conclusions and recommendations to enable any competent and sincere administration to not only clean up the entire welfare scandal hut io the process save enough money to ohviate the need for Big Mac and the Federal bail-out.

· It would appear that the present city administration is either unable or unwilling to introduce the most basic management controls, and this in the face of the most critical financial crisis in its history.

The Mayor points the finger of blame to the previous administration, cooveniently forgetting that he was the Comptroller during that period and as such was responsible for the authorization to pay these fraudulent Medicald claims.

In 1969, while he was Comptroller, a Manhattan grand jury issued a devastating report claiming the city was being ripped off to the tune of over a hillioo dollars. The then Governor asked OWIG in 1971 to investigate those charges; subsequent inquiry reaffirmed the grand jury's findings.

At the Root of Detroit's Problems

Unfortunately, the then Comptroller and present Mayor has taken no action

Former Administrators Sngarman and Goldberg, the creators of the welfare monster, which even Sugarman's $10 million worth of management geniuses could not control, claim they were locked into positions hy state and Federal regulations, and sometimes the story is not enough regulations. New regulations are not the answer, nor are they necessary.

Effective control of Medicaid and welfare is impossible when that control runs "contra" to the politics of the unioo chiefs and their surrogates, the city administration, DALLAS-Design and manufacturing know-how lie at the foundation of America's world position, both military and economic. The Soviet Union is richer in untapped resources. Europe has prolific scientists, and Asia has a billion workers. But in just 200 years we've outdistanced them all, through the peculiar genius of Americans to turn laboratory dreams into realities.

Yet today that mastery of design and manufacturing is being rapidly transferred to friendly nations, to nonaligned nations and to Warsaw Pact nations. It is being transferred to many nations that can use it to beat us in the international market place.

The threat is therefore twofold Exporting design and manufacturing know-how to potential enemies strengthens them militarily. And exporting that same know-how to potential economic competitors—friends or foes-strengthens them to compete against us for world markets. Yet we continue to transfer know-how by many means.

Among the many mechanisms that transfer know-how to other nations, the most effective and therefore most hazardous are those in which the donor organization is most active in teaching design and manufacturing techniques to the receiving organization. These active mechanisms include building "turn-key" factories for them, turing equipment. At the other end of the spectrum, passive mechanisms transfer very little know-how. Least hazardous, therefore, are trade exhibits, commercial literature and sales of products without accompanying design and manufacturing know-how.

The fear that high-technology equipment can be "reverse engineered" to divulge details and manufacturing helongs to an earlier era of simpler technology. Today, decisions to permit or deny export of finished products may be made largely on the basis of what capabilities those products themselves confer upon the receiving na-

Basic mechanisms to control the export of know-how do exist, but they need policy direction, modernizing and strengthening.

policy of decontrolling many products that have no military significance, applying screening criteria to cootrol significant products by categories, but focusing thorough investigations on requests that threaten to transfer know-how. Export liceoses must be denied in every case where design or manufacturing know-how or equipment would represent a revolutionary "quantumjump" advance to the receiving nation. Such advances not only allow the receiving country to draw abreast of the United States but also serve as the basis for new advances that may surpass ours. Evaluations of the potential impact of proposed transfers are best made by knowledgeable current practitioners of the technology.

In the 1970's, however, a few committee nations have begun to sell strategic know-bow to Communist nations. And in other cases, know-how sold to nonaligned countries has been re-exported to Communist countries. The United States should influence its fellow committee members to return to their original objectives. The coordirating committee should be strengthened to insure effective enforcement of the committee agreement.

A new approach is long overdue. It must focus on critical items of direct military significance, plus vital design and manufacturing know-how, rather than on the end products of know-how. And beyond protecting what we have, we need to revitalize the creation of new know-how through aggressive research and development funding in industry.

Only in these ways, can we hope to protect the keys to America's military security and economic health. .

CHICAGO—He is a different kind of candidate.

The compact, almost slight figure of Jimmy Carter emerges from the swirl of Secret Service agents and pushing, elbowing, camera-laden television technicians. He waves from a flat-bed truck or someone's front porch. The smile is immediately recognizable but the face seems unexpectedly large and, in serious repose as it most often is, its features are still unfamiliar. The voice is a small joit. Although the portable microphone. amplifies and harshens it, there are still the sudden descents into softness, the unusual phrasing, the Southern cadence and prominciation. . Jimmy Carter is not your everyday politician. in Brooklyn and Philadelphia, in Pittsburgh and Milwaukee.

Mr. Carter won primaries in New Hampshire, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Wisconsin but against a split field and relatively low turnouts. The primary successes are his good omens for November but if he is to realize their full promise, he must arouse the enthusiasm and bring to the polls in large numbers those voters who find him "different" and a little puzzling. He must cease being a friendly stranger and be seen as their forceful champion. After a week of campaigning among them, Carter could be encouraged but not wholly sure that he is making that modest expectations.

Historically, these are Al Smith Democrats. It was his campaign in 1928 that moved many of the parents and grandparents of today's voters in major cities of the East and the industralized Middle West to vote Democratic or to vote at all. The majority of them-Irish, Italians, Poles, Slovaks -have remained loyal to the party of Smith and Franklin D. Roosevelt. Carter, having led the South back into the party after a generation of disaffection, knows that if he can relate successfully to these Northeast voters, the "Roosevelt coalition"-so often prematurely proclaimed dead-will be alive and himself invincible in the November election.

They are people who work hardand for what? They have worked for the pension, to own the house, to live near the church and the social hall. In many ways, the mostly uninterrupted prosperity of the last thirty years has been good to them. But of late, diverse

Technological changes and financial mergers have left some older workers unemployed or deprived of a private. pension. Their houses are not worth what they once were because the neighborhood bas begun to change its racial composition, Banks hasten and worsen change by "redlining" transi-tional neighborhoods. The younger people move away, imperiling the future of the church and the social

Many of these voters in the older cities of the Northeast feel that nobody listens to them, nobody cares a fourletter word about their problems. Some remain brass-collar Democrats; others oscillate between militancy on a particular issue and a generalizedwhat's the use?- apathy.

Jim King, the trip director of the Carter campaign, understands these people because he grew up in their ranks in Massachusetts. As the former head of Senator Edward Kennedy's Boston office, he has worked on their problems. In planning Carter's itinerary, King has brought him to a once solidly Italian, now mixed, neighborhood in North Philadelphia, to a Polish stronghold in Pittsburgh, a Slovenian community center in Cleveland and so on. Presidential candidates have previously made raily appearances in ethnic neighborhoods, but King is trying for something more—a genuine human encounter. Carter makes walking tours, confers with neighborhood leaders and takes questions from the crowd.

Since Carter is trailed everywhere not only by his Secret Service staff but also by about 85 reporters and cameramen, it is difficult to attain the small scale and the intimacy that would make these encounters most effective.

"It's like making two dozen elephants pirouette at once," King observes genially. "It can be done-and other times it just doesn't work."

When it does come off, however, as it did on: "Polish Hill" in Pittsburgh the other day, it is a warming experience even for politics-hardened reporters. Carter walked the street chatting with a friendly parish priest and community leaders, made two speechesone to the adults and one to the parochial school children and their nunsposed for photographers with the middle-aged women who form a local basketball team, and finally pulled on -as did several reporters-a shirt emblazoned with the Polish eagle and the words "Polish Power." Will Carter if elected make good on his promise not to forget the people and the problems of Polish Hill? Will those people place their trust in blm? On their answer to the latter question may hinge the election.

For All

By Carolyn Shaw Bell

WELLESLEY, Mass. - The debate over the ... Humphrey-Hawkins Full Employment and Balanced Growth Act has clouded the meaning of full employment. Most Americans have expressed in public opininn polls and by their response to employment offices and want ads, a continuing strong belief in the work ethic. They support the goal of full employment because they object to handouts or the dole-or make-work or temporary jobs. But-to adhere to this work ethic means that johs must be available so that everyone who is willing and able to work can find employment opportunity.

It is simple to translate this into legislation. Congress must amend the Employment Act of 1946, which commits the Federal Government to promote maximum levels of employment, in order to mandate Federal policies for full employment.

Next, we must abandon the statistics we now use. Confusion has beset this country's economic policies for over twenty years because we have defined full employment in terms of unemployment. We have had a "target rate," an "interim rate," the "minimum acceptable rate"-measures that are faulty at best and deceptive at worst. The very notion of defining full employment as some level of unemployment is a basic, and unacceptable, contradiction in logic.

If we want to provide work for everyone who is willing and able to work, we need a new approach that has never been tried in this country. Let us take an inventory of labor supply.

We can count the number of people who would want work if jobs were available, and find out under what conditions of wages and hours and job requirements they would offer their services. We can define the potential labor supply in terms of people's skills and training.

(We do not know how many physicians, welders, librarians and boilermakers we have in the country: All our occupational data refer to people who are employed or seeking employment, not to those who could supply such skills.)

We can scrap the data on unemployment by race, sex and age, in favor of listing workers' expertise, their mobility, their experience on the job, their flexibility and adaptability. We should identify potential workers hy their relation to labor markets. How many would be looking for work for the first time, on leaving school or in later years of their life?

We can define the potential labor supply in terms of people's skills and training.'

How many people want part-time work, or intermittent employment, to fit their commitments as students or their lesser activities in retirement or simply the other pursuits in their lives? How many would leave retirement or bousehold duties or full-time schooling and how many would leave their present employer if other jobs were available? How many people would be ready and willing to work if they could relocate to another city or to another occupation?

Of course, the potential labor supply depends on wages and the availability of jobs as well as the availability of people. But that is why using unemployment to define full employment cannot succeed. In an expanding econnomy the number of people looking for .work increases, and unemployment may remain high, even in a booming economy, simply because more people enter the job market. And when the economy is shrinking many people stop looking for jobs: Discouraged, they leave the market, and are no longer counted among those whn are unemployed.

Of what use is an economic indicator that can show high unemploye ment in times of prosperity, or a depression reducing unemployment? Such a topsy-turvy measure cannot help economic policy-makers, nor provide much information to the general

But we could sccurately measure both employment and unemployment by counting the potential labor supply and then the number of people actually at work. And we can ahandon the notion that a commitment to full emiployment requires supporting 3 percent, or 4 percent, or some other "magic number" for the unemployment rate.

Furthermore, once we know what conditions are needed to provide real jobs to actual people, we can start creating those conditions. We can design employment policies matching people with jobs, for an honest approach to full employment would be concerned with people who want an honest day's work, and with jobs for all the people who will work.

Aided Those Fleeing Spain in Civil War-Jailed After Conflict With the Un-American Committee

Heleo R. Bryan, who had been execu-tive secretary of the Joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committee in New York City in the 1940's and who had been sent to prison in 1950 for contempt of Congress after a long court fight, died Thursday in Medford Lakes, N. J., at the age of 82. The committee had been established to provide aid for anti-Franco refugees of the Spanish Civil War. Miss Bryan and other officials of the committee refused to turn over the organizatioo's records to the House Un-American Activities Committee, which maintained that the organization was a Communist

Miss Bryan's brother, Dr. George Bryan, a psychoanalyst here, said yes-terday in recalling his sister a work, that as the executive bead of the committee she had "raised and dispensed millions of dollars" to aid refugees of the Spanish

The relief committee had been licensed by the President's War Relief Control Board. The committee's members made no secret of their dislike of the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

House Group Opposed in Ad

Io a full-page advertisement in The New York Times in April 1946, the relief committee's members declared that the House committee "bas long since become octorious for its abuse of powers granted to it by Congress," and that the House committee wanted the names of the supporters of the refugee-aid group so that it "may bound and persecute them." The relief committee said that if the names of the people it had belped were disclosed it would subject the refugees and their families to barassment by Franco forces and perhaps torture and Miss Bryan was one of 17 officials and members of the relief committee finally cited for contempt of Congress on April 16, 1946, Sentenced to three mooths and a $500 fine, she went to the Federal prison for women in Alderson, W. Va., in November 1950. Miss Bryan later wrote a memoir of ber prison experience, which she found har-rowing. The memoir, called "Inside," was published by the Houghton Mifflin Company in 1953.

Helen Reid Bryan was born in Cincinoati to Dr. W. S. P. Bryao, a Presbyterian minister, and Alice Reid Bryan. She graduated from Wellesey College in 1917. Before joining the Spanish refugee relief committee in 1940, Miss Bryan had a long association with the Quaker Institute of Race Relations at Swarthmore College in

HELEN R. BRYAN, 82, Dalton Trumbo, Film Writer, Dies; DR. WALTER RIESE, 86, SPECIALIST ON THE BRAIN OF REFUGEE GROUP Oscar Winner Had Been Blacklisted

By JON NORDHEIMER

LOS ANCELES, Sept 10.— Dalton Trumbo, the Hollywood screen writer who was perhaps the most famous mem-ber of the blacklisted film industry authors called "the Hollywood Ten," of a heart attack early today at his bome here. He was 70 years old.

Mr. Trumbo, who was awarded an Oscar for a screenplay written under a pseudonym during his years of forced exile from work in films, underwent surgery for lung cancer in 1973.

Although he served one year in Federal prison for his refusal to provide the House Un-American Activities Committee. with any information about his political leanings in 1947, he was able in later years to recall with sardonic humor his Communist association
"I joined the Communist Party in 1943 and left it in 1948 on the ground that in the future I should be far ton busy to attend its meetings, which were, in any event, duli beyond description, about as revolutionary in purpose as Wednesday graphing testimonial services in the day-evening testimonial services in the Christian Science Church," he said in

"I never considered the working class anything other than something to get out of," he remarked at another time.

A Ginger Rogers Film One of Mr. Trumbo's movies that drew suspicious examination by the House committee was "Tender Comrade," which starred Ginger Rogers, who had won ar. Oscar for her performance as a strongwilled secretary in his earlier success. "Kitty Foyle."

When "Tender Comrade" was released in 1943, it was regarded as a sentimen-tally innocuous story of a worker in a war plant sourageously struggling while her husband was off fighting. By 1947, with the Cold War at its height, nuance. were seen in singla words such as "com rade" and in hits of dialogue.

That year, the tearful mother of Ginge Rogers told the committee that ber daug. ter had been forced to utter the "Com nunist line" in the film: "Share and share alike—that's democracy." A Highly Paid Writer

The only member of the Hollywood Ten to come from a working-class back-ground, Mr. Trumbo, until bis blacklisting, had been one of the highest-paid screen writers in the film capital, earning as much as $4,000 a week while assigned to a script.

His screen credits in the preblacklisting era include "Kitty Foyle," "A Guy Named Joe" and "Thirty Seconds over Tokyo." He was also the author of the 1939 war novel "Johnny Got His Gun," which won the National Book Award that year and which Mr. Trumbo later worked into a screenplay for the 1971 film of the same name. The film was awarded the International Critics Award at the Cannes Film pleted 18 screenplays in a two-year period at an average fee of $1,750 for each full-length feature. "None was very good," he later acknowledged.

But, unlike some other members of the Hollywood Ten, Mr. Trumbo kept active, and maintained his equilibrium during those trying years, even finding some humor in the time be spent to the Federal prison in Ashland, Ky., for refusing to cooperate with the investigators of the Un-American Activities Committee.

"It was a place of quality," Mr. Trumbo leter said of the correctional facility at Ashlano, "as evidenced by the fact that he head librarian was a Congressman bere for a felony called taking a bribe, bereas I was there for a misdemeanor alled contempt of Congress. In later years, be also delighted in recounting the fact that one of his Congres-sicnal inquisitors, J. Parnell Thomas, who was convicted of defrauding the Government, had served a sentence at a prison with two other members of the Hollywood Ten.

Mr. Trumbo briefly rejoined the Com munist Party during the blacklist in 1954 as a gesture of support for 14 Communist officials in California convicted under the Smith Act, but severed his ties again after these convictions were reversed and the defendants freed.

Oscar for a Pseudonym

In 1957, the Academy Award for best creenplay went to Robert Rich, the name isted on the credits of the film "The Brave One," but it was discovered, much to the embarrassment of some in the in-dustry who still feared political reprisals, that Mr. Rich was, in fact, Mr. Trumbo, working under one of many names he used to sell his work. The Oscar was finally presented to Mr. Trumbo last year. Kirk Douglas, the star of "Spartacus."

Over the next 20 years Mr. Korenian collected the remainder of the tapes-France and Germany. The last one was bought in Lehanon in 1971.

Mr. Korenian was attracted to the Armenian Sisters Academy, a religiously-oriented elementary school, and offered the tapestries to them as a gift in May. They were accepted.

In addition to presenting the tapestries to New York, the Armenians from the academy, as well as those involved in the national "thank you" effort, expect to make the presentation and banquet a total observance of their immigration.

They will honor descendants of Senator Cleveland H. Charged With the Abduction, Rape and Murder of College Student in Bergen County

By RONALD SULLIVAN.

RIVER VALE, N.J., Sept. 10—A 16-year-old youth was arrested today at his home in this Bergen County suburb and charged with the abduction, rape and murder of Kim Montelaro, a 20-year-old college student from New Milford whose body was discovered in a secluded field in nearby Washington Township last week.

According to the police, the victim was kidnapped while shopping on Aug. 31 at the Paramus Park shopping mail, driven in her own car to Washington Township, and raped there and stabbed to death with a seven-inch hunting knife.

The Bergen County Prosecutor, Joseph W. Woodcock Jr., said in Hackensack, that the youth's ideotity would oot be dis-closed because he was a juvenile, but that he intended to press for the suspect's prosecution as an adult.

Mr. Woodcock said that the "break in the case" had come with the discovery of a hunting knife sheath two days ago in the field where the victim had been

Mr. Bradley, who is 32 years old, said he was visited in Boston last month hy According to Mr. Bradley, the Prosecutor's aides wanted to know how he would

Asked if he considered the investigators' questioning engineering the processors of the considered the investigators' questioning engineering the processors of the considered the investigators' questioning and the considered the investigators' considered the investigators' considered the considered request that he return to New Jersey as "pressure," Mr. Bradley replied:

the woman who had filed the charges.

Mr. Bradley was released from jail yesterday on $2,500 bail. In an interview Thursday at the Morris County Jail in Morristown, Mr. Bradley said that his 1974 recantation "was the truth." He reiterated that he had not seen Mr. Carter fleeing from the murder scene.

Passaic County investigators questioned Mr. Bradley a second time last week while he was still in jail. He reportedly took a lie-detector test, but neither Mr. Bradley nor Mr. Humphreys would comment on the results.

Mr. Humphreys declined to comment directly on Mr. Bradley's account of his meeting with the Prosecutor's assistants. But Mr. Humphreys said:

More Funds for Prosecutor

The Prosecutor confirmed that his office had obtained an additional $70,000 alloca-tion last month to its $1.9 million hudget from the county. He refused to say how the money was being spent.

Members of Mr. Humphreys's staff have said privately that most of the $70,000 was helng used to reinvestigate the Carter-Artis case.

Mr. Humphreys's office has opposed requests for public funds to help defense lawyers in their investigations. Members of the Prosecutor's staff, who asked for anonymity, asserted that there was "some unhappiness" in the office because of the supposedly heavy concentration of personnel and time on the retrial of Mr. Carter and Mr. scheduled to start on Oct. 12.

Morale Problem Denied

Mr. Humphreys, in a rare move, has personally been representing the prosecution at long pretrial hearings. He is also expected to participate in the trial—the first time he has done so since he took office in June 1975.

Denying that there was any morale problem, Mr. Humphreys said he was actively involved in the Carter-Artis case "because it is important."

Mr. Carter is now 39 years old and Mr. Artis, 31. Their convictions and life sentences were reversed last March hy the New Jersey Supreme Court, which ruled that evidence bad been withheld by the prosecution.

Dazed Woman Identified

An elderly unknown woman, apparently a victim of amnesia, who was hospitalized 16 days ago after being found dazed on a midtown sidewalk was identified by the police last night as Mildred Erickson, a woman in her 70's with few friends and no close relatives. Missing-persons detectives, who had pursued more than 300 fruit-less leads in the case, said that the identification hed been provided by Mary Erickson, a 64-year-old Bronx widow who is a sister-in-law of Miss Erickson but who had not seen her for many years.

The sister-in-law said Miss Erickson had lived for 15 years at the Tudor Hotel, 304 East 42d Street, but had given up her room several weeks ago after losing a long-held clerical job. A hotel employee recalled Miss Erickson as a "loner." She was summering from mainutrition and apparent amnesia when found outside a Chock Full o'Nuts restaurant at 39th Street and Broadway on Aug. 26 and was taken to St. Clare's Hospital. State and local policemen in southwestern Connecticut have disclosed details of a hizarre case involving the theft and slaughter of a $100,000 high pedigree Holstein calf and the murder of a young man on a wooded

The mystery began developing last Sunday morning when a month-old, artificially hred black and white heifer was stolen from a barn at Poverty Hollow Farm in Newtown, Coon. The farm's owner is Dan W. Young Man Stabbed to Death Kelley Bond, 21 years old, of Ansonia, Conn., was murdered at the outdoor gathering. He was stabbed in the heart. After Mr. Bond was stabbed, most of the other young people, primarily men, ran off into the surrounding woods. Late Monday afternoon, one of them, Michael Oczkowski, 22, of Seymour, Conn., was apprehended in the woods and charged with the murder. Officially, the police say that the stabbing had followed an apparent argument over a girl. But local papers around Newtown are full of rumors that those at the cabin where the call's remains were found were en-gaged in a ritual of some sort. The police and Mr. Lufkin's farm refuse any comment on that speculation.

But one policeman with knowledge of the investigation did not dispute the rumors.

Wilkins, at 75, Still a Vigorous Figure in Rights Movement

BY LENA WILLIAMS

At 75 years of age, Roy Wilkins, executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, still displays some of the vigor enthusiasm, and determination of his youth.

The cool, charismatic man, who loves fast cars and good conversation, is still considered by many as the foremost leader in this country's civil rights movement. Last night, nearly 2,000 people gathered at the New York Hilton Hotel for a belated birthday celebration for Mr. Wilkins (he was born Aug. 30, 1901). As a gesture of support, not only for the N.A.A.C.P., but also for the man who has spent 45 years with the organization, entertainers, politicians, friends and fellow civil rights activists paid $100 a ticket for the informal, cabaret-style din-

SHANKER ASSAILS BOARD ON 'HIRING HALL' TACTICS

Albert Shanker, president of the United Federation of Teachers, criticized the Roard of Education yesterday for the "hiring hall" arrangements at board offices for the reassignment of teachers who had been notified they would no longer be needed at schools where they had previously taught.

He charged that the teachers were being treated like a "herd of cows" and said the "hiring hall was chaos pure and simple." He contended that the board had not planned adequately for the number of teachers who turned up and had not reas-Personnel in dealing with the teachers.

A spokesman for the board said that some of the school districts had sent more teachers to the board than the numand did not report at the time scheduled. The board spokesman also said that there was no possibility that any of the 3,780 teachers who received dismissal notices would be rehired, despite reports earlier this week that a smaller number would be laid off. Thee could be addi-tional dismissals, he said, if the attrition rate is lower this fall than in the past.

Supermarket Produce: A Search for Freshne

By MIMI SHERATON To lovers of fresh fruits and vege-tables, this might well seem to be the time for celebration. For in spite of poor weather that has kept this year's harvest from being as plentiful as had the season that offers the greatest variety of locally grown products at their peak of perfection.

Yet after four weeks of study the produce departments of 45 supermarkets in Queens, Riverdale and Manhattan—representative of the 1,500 to 2,000 such stores that exist in the city good fruits and vegetables in most of these stores, even at this bountful grason, is chancy to say the least.

Compared with the variety of sparking produce displayed by the city's top independent greengrocers, supermarkets, with only a few notable exceptions, present a dismal picture, only slightly less so than it might be in midwinter.

Some of the reasons for the differ ences between supermarket and spe-cially-store produce were explained by William Forsberg, the director of grocery merchandssing for the A. & P.

Specialty stores can take better care of things like cheese, fish, meat, fruits and vegetables than we can," he said. and vegetables than we can," he said.
"An independent store owner picks exactly what he needs each day and has little waste. He also handles it himself, or directly supervises others who do so, and so he has little days or "

Supermarkets buy in huge carloads and we warehouse produce and then send it out to our stores, which means extra time and extra handling. And then, although we try to train our per-sonnel and check up on them, some managers and clerks are just better than others."

Other Executives Disagree

While several produce wholesalers in the Hunts Point market shared this opinion, executives of other chains— Sloan's, Daitch-Shopwell, Gristede's, D'Agostino, Pathmark and Grand Union— disagreed. All insisted they bought quality comparable to that of the most deluxe greengrocers, saying also that they sold uniformly below luxury market prices. In addition, all said their methods of handling produce were ex-celleot, acknowledging however, that there was an inevitable difference from store to store.

Yet my observations and complaints of food-oriented acquaintances and readers indicate that there is much to dispute the supermarket executives'

Supermarket produce selections are inferior in variety and quality, and as-sertions that they are always better value are open to question. Lack of variety is the supermarket shortcoming easiest to understand and, perhaps, the least serious. In the city, the supermarkets are kept as small as possible, and the resultant proportionate, space for produce is that much less. Managers, therefore, concentrate on those items that sell best and try on those items that self-up to stay away from the very expensive, highly perishable specialties.

Whatever variety of fruits and vegetables does exist is probably due to the consumers increased interest in different vegetables and their disafdifferent vegetables and their disaffection with frozen produce.

Quality is far more discouraging.

Noticing that I was taking notes in the A_k & P. on Madison Avenue at 87th Street one Saturday morning, a shopper, Ellen Conant, came over and said, "I hope you're doing a study on supermarket fruits and vegetables. They are simply terrible. I have an awing time up here on the East Side. We pay premium rent because we only between chains, but also within chains, from one store to another. In Manhattan alone, the consistently best supermarket produce was found at Sloan's superior more for fruit than for vegetables. But in the entire area, the two best chains were Waldbaum's and Pathmark, hoth able to offer the widest variety, the best quality and lowest prices because, except for one Pathmark in Inwood, neither has stores in Manhattan and expenses in the in Manhattan, and expenses in the other boroughs and the suburbs are

And when John Mintz, vice president in charge of produce for Grand Union, insisted that all of his stores bad the same quality, and that whichever sture I went into could be regarded as typical, he couldn't have been more

For while from an overall viewpoint the three chains named above were best, the best single supermarket produce department I saw during my

Quality of produce depends on the merchandise that is purchased in the first place and the way it is stored and handled later.

thought the neighborhood offered the best of everything, but we are deprived when it comes to fruits and vegetables. The specialty markets, such as Empire across the street, have nice things, but their prices ere terrific."

This opinion was repeated by shoppers in a number of markets I visited and with excellent reason. For one thing, produce departments in these stores geoerally look terrible because of the state of their greens; there are limp, browning lettuce, faded parsley, wilted, bagged spinach, rotting bean sprouts, and drooping celery.

Because clerks do not rotate merchandise and weed out what is spoiling, the selection looks anything but

Quality of produce depends on two main factors—the merchandise that is main factors—the merchandise that is purchased in the first place, and the way it is stored and handled afterward. Judging by the labels and grades of quality I saw when supermarkets did have fresh merchandise, their main problem is in the handling. How to get a long line of employees to outnire produce with the same diligence are produce with the same diligence ex-ercised in a family-run store where poppa is watching is truly a problem in uman motivation. Yet with all of the drawbacks, it is obviously possible for a better job to be done, because there are stores. doing it. Quality does vary greatly not

Other Grand Unions offered selections ranging from poor to good.

A. & P., Daitch, D'Agostino and international, also varying from store to store, were the poorest over all. Gristede supermarkets were a cut or two better, but it must be noted that Gristede service stores, such as Nicola's in the Village, offer the worst value in town. Their fruit and produce were obviously top grade when purchased, but were consistently badly handled, and such stores have a lower turnover than supermarkets, which is an added disadvantage. Nevertheless, prices at these stores are the same as or more than those in luxury specialty stores.

Price is by far the most difficult and confusing area in which to make comparisons. The assertion of supermarket executives that they are comparisons with each other in price proved. petitive with each other in price proved to be true if taken oo an average: No one chain can afford to be the lowest on everything, and working on the old merchandising principle that what is lost on apples is made up on oranges, they do exactly that.

Leyden Ambrose, who makes jewelry ("mostly gold, mostly rings, very smooth and flowing"). He got the idea of a repants' show when after five mooths in New York, he still hadn't placed his work.

"To Atlanta," he said, "I showed in galleries and shops and eventually opened my own store. But when I moved up here, I lost my outlets. So I started thinking about how I could have a show. Then I thought, if I paired with somebody else, they would bring their friends in too."

Well, if two were good, three would be better he decided, and this kind of chain-thinking finally led to the open studio sale. Until then, most of the tenants in the 10-story building, which has space divided between the commercial and the creative, had scarcely known one another. And almost oone of them have regular shop or gallery outlets for their work

Today, and again tomorrow, from noot to 7 P.M., visitors can see Mr. Ambrose's jewelry; the large terra cotta slah pots of Jim Owen, and Rita Sherman's colored matte porcelain vice in government, not one American in a thousand can have heard of bim or even of the joint committee on Internal Revenue Taxation. But Larry as he was almost always called by the House and Schate members - in some ways was the dominant figure of the conference.

He was asked to propose numerous compromises when the conferees could not find a way out of an impasse. Sometimes he volunteered compro-mises even before they were asked for. On a few occasions he made known his view that one provision or another was bad tax law.

Mr. Woodworth was invariably deferential. He was uncanny in knowing when to speak up and when not to. And above all, he knew everything. "What does this mean, Larry?" was a question that must have been asked a hundred times.

The division of time. The conferees, as matters turned out, spent more time an many little things with almost no revenue impact than on major issues such as child care deductions affecting millions of people and hundreds of millions of dollars.

They were bedeviled by such perplexing issues as how to tax fishermen and how baby-sitting services should be treated (as employers, as an independent business, as employees?) and deductions allowable for business and professional conventions in foreign countries, It took four separate discussions on four days to resolve an obscure issue of whether tax-free revenue bonds could be issued to build private hospitals; an issue of principle was involved and the House conferees stood fast and finally got the whole provision

Strange Bedfelinws. There is not much philosophical affinity between Mr. Vanik and Representative Barber B. Conable Jr., Republican of Alexander, N.Y. Mr. Conable, for example, worries about "capital formation"—a potential lack of investment, inadequate corporate profits and the like. Vanik thinks corporations are taxed far too little.

Yet these two were frequently to-gether against Senafe provisions that would erode the revenues. Mr. Conable nbjected to a host of little things, and sometimes be won. Mr. Vanik won in many cases too—for example, in mak-ing sure a new provision giving tax relief to cattle raisers forced to sell some of their herds because of drought would be limited to actual farmers.

The Influence of the New Congressional Budget Process. While the tax-writing committees, and tax bill conferess, have not on the whole been "irre-sponsible," in the past, the easiest course has often been to reduce taxes rather than preserve or raise them. This conference was dominated by the revenue floor adopted as part of the new budget process to bold down the deficit, and the resulting need of the conference o ferees to produce a respectable net revenue gain for all the bundreds of provisions taken together. Potential tax losses of hearly $1 billion were thrown out for this reason, and numerous compromises were resolved on the side of n on small matters.

On the major question of the merits of open conference committees, it seems doubtful that the tax conferees, at least, will return to the old system settling things behind closed doors.

"The new way is better," Mr. Conable sald in an interview, "though I wasn't sure at first that it would be. The attendance was better. Bad provisions could be exposed and defeated more readily. There was more focus on the subject. The lobbyists were there growling, but they were not allowed to pass us slips of paper all the time. "Sure, there was some posturing. But not too much."

OVERWEIGHT? If you are 20 or more pounds over-

If you've gone up and down like a yo-yo-If you've tried diets, pills, injec-

Before I published this book I days 1 dropped 83 pounds—going from 24C to 157. I've never felt betyears of unsuccessful "dieting" . and just about when I'd given up all hope of ever being thin again!

I.M.F. Will Be Asked to Slow Its Pace—Reuss Cites Objections

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 10 (Reuters)-Italy secured the backing of its European Common Market partners today for its call to the International Monetary Fund to slow down its rate of gold sales.

Italy's interest in gold sales and prices is related to its gold-backed borrowings this year, principally from West Germany:

Wall Street executives and other businessmen maiotained yesterday that mafor fegislation to revise the tax laws, as approved by the House-Senate cooference committee, could have been coosiderably

The elimination of doubt over the tax treatment of key provisions was considered as important as the outcome itself—and therefore good for the economy. Many of those interviewed found the hill to be mild in its impact and, in many ways, already so thoroughly discussed as to have been discounted in the stock market.

The end of tax shelter henefits for Meaowhile, the board also lowered its market because iovestors will be looking for somewhere else to make money. Profit Reductions Seen

The reduction in benefits for so-called DISC companies, Domestic International sales Corporations, was expected to cut after-tax profits from such benefits for a wide variety of big corporations once encouraged to export their goods.

The list would include makers o machinery, chemicals, capital goods, power generators, tractors, computers construction machinery and similar beavy equipment. William M. Batten, chairman of the

New York Stock Exchange, who had been in favor of much more favorable capital gains and loss treatment, termed the com-promise "worse than no new capital gains legislation at all.

Paul Kolton, chairman of the American Stock Exchange, also displeased, said that hy extending the six-month holding period for capital gains, the measure would further substitute the caleodar for sound judgment and thus would he incoosistent with the pressing national need to foster capital formation and to encourage iovestors to participate in the investment process."
However, both the Amex and the Chi

The banks were content with this arrangement, because they earned interest on those occasions when you allowed the balance to remain unpaid, or rolled it over into the next monthly billing period. Moreover, they expected the credit card to provide them with an "entree" to you for other profitable banking services for example, automobile loans or home improvement

Last April, Citihank, the largest banking institution in New York and second-largest in the country behind San Francisco's Bank of America, de-cided to eliminate the free ride. Holders of its Master Charga cards would henceforth incur a minimum finance charge of 50 cents, even if they paid their bills in full within the 25-day grace period.

No other major banks have followed Citibenk's example, although some are considering a similar levy. The Chemical Bank took a different tack. In July it appounced a new system of calculating finance charges that has increased the cost for all of its Master Charge customers who do not pay off their monthly balances.

Cardholders who elect oot to pay off their balances within the 25-day grace period are now paying finance charges based on the average daily balance in their accounts calculated according to tha date that each purchase is added to the account, instead of from the billing

This means that if the balance is rolled over into the next month, there will be no free ride on any purchases made in the meantime. If you pay off your account withio tha grace period. you still incur no finance charges. Including the grace period and the period between a purchase and the hilling date, your free ride might amount to 45 days or more but not if you fail to pay your balance in full by the due date.

About a year ago, Citibank adopted a similar system, whereby the clock starts running for interest charges as soon as its Master Charge computers receive your bills, so long as there's a balance outstanding from the previous

The BankAmericard is headed for extinction-at least in oame. Starting some time next year, according to National BankAmericard Inc., the name of this credit card will be changed all over the world to Visa, a word ex-

The Sept. 15 auction is for the sale of 780,000 ounces, the same amount of sales held in Juna and July.

The price paid by buyers at the June auction was $126 an ounce and in July $122.06, roughly in line with the free-market price at the time.

WASHINGTON Sept. 10-The molding and die casting of bigh melting point steel and many other metals are expected to ba improved by a new method of lubrication—the use of vapors, rather than liquids-so that the castings can be easily removed from the forms.

Inventors of the process are Prof. Elmer E. Klaus, a chemical engineer, and Chun W. Lai, e former gradoate student, at Pennsylvania State Univer-

As described in Patent 3,978,908, granted this week, the process greatly reduces fire and pollution hazards common with the oils and other liquids now used to lubricate mold and die-surfaces to promote shearing between them and the cast metal.

The vaporous lubricants are formed by passing a carrier gas, such as nitro-gen or carbon dioxide, through a reser-voir containing an organic liquid, typi-cally e phosphorous compound. Inject-ed into a hot mold or onto the intricate en into a not most of outside the intricate surfaces of a closed die, the vaporous lubricants decompose, leaving a thin, uniform, easily sheared coating.

Besides high melting point metals, the invention is generally useful with steels, aluminum, magnesium, zinc and many allors.

Aside from averting the pollution and fire hazards that arise when hot tools are sprayed with oil, the vaporous Inbricants extend the life of molds and dies by reducing the metal fatigue that results when the tools are repeatedly ebock-cooled with conventional lubri-

Rocket-Powered Surveillance Device

Rocket-powered equipment for obtaining information inside enemy territory and transmitting it by radio has been invented for the the United States Army. James F. MacAdam, an electronics engineer at the Army's Electronic Warfare Laboratory, Mountain View, Calif., obtained Patent 3,979,086, forthe rocketed data communication system this week. -

The device consists of two connected sections, called e rocket module and a surface module. The combination is dropped from the air or otherwise placed where it is to gather information. Sensors within the surface module pick up information from speech or other sources, and it is recorded inside the rocket module.

Upon command from a station, or after predetermined time set by an electronic clock, the rocket section is launched to a mederate height. When it reaches a point permitting line-ofsight transmission to the station, the recorded data are sent to the station's

The data may consist of voice or radio communications or signals of other kinds indicating the presence and activities of enemy personnel and vehicles, and their timing. The patent says the rocket module may further include an explosive self destruction for use when it has completed transmitting all the important information.

Demand Regulator

For Admitting Oxygen A demand regulator for admitting oxygen into emergency breathing systems and resuscitators, which was patented this week, is to be incorporated in an escape device for mining use. Justin W. Mills Jr., vice president for engineeriog of Lif-O-Gen. Inc., Cam-bridge, Md., who received Patent 3,978,854, said final testing by the Gov-ernment of the regulator was under way. He holds 28 other patents, mostly on-gas controls.

The company regards the new regulator, trademarked LIF, as an important addition to its line of portable emergen-cy oxygen devices. The diaphragm is open to the atmosphere on one side and communicates with the breaking system on the other. A tilt valve allows a high oxygen inflow with little breathing effort. The unit can be used in atmosphere that is totally oxygen-defi-

The patented regulator weighs only four ounces, and the back pack of which it is to form a part will weigh 12 pounds, including tanks and breathing mask. The cost of the mine-escape device will be about $400, which Mr. Mills calls relatively low.

The inventor is also working oo a new respirator to be used in reviving persoos whose breathing has stopped.

To Hold Keys

Washingtoo offers an answer in Patent 3,978,902, granted this week. She uses flexible magnetic tape, which has self-adhesive backing that attaches to the inside of a purse. The keys are chained to a fob made of flat steel, which is held by the tape's magnetism at a point near the purse mouth where the keys are easy to reach.

"It's going better than we thought," maintained Rubin Ginzberg, Mirabel's manager and a former Government regional director of telecommunications who had never run an airport before. "However," he acknowledged, "we're still taking out bugs."

A mammoth project both fiscall and geographically, Mirabel—designed to provide for eastern Canada's international air traffic needs well into the 21st century—has already cost $325 million to build, plus $140 million for land acquisition, about double the original estimates.

By the time an anticipated third stage is completed in 2025, Mirabel could wind up as one of the costliest public works projects in Canada's history.
It is also one of the most innovative.
For the airport, euthorities took not only a 17,000-acre tract for operations but also 71,000 surrounding acres to keep the airport forever insulated from encreaching development.

Insulated From the Public

Mirabel uses the "remote gate system" which docks the planes on the tarmac away from the terminal and transports travelers back and forth in bus-like passenger transfer vehicles, or PTV's. By eliminating the need for plane-docking areas along the terminal, the system does away with long treks down terminal corridors.

"I get a lot of good comments about no walking distance," said Pierre Lacombe passenger service supervisor for Air Canada. "It's very functional," agreed one of his agents. 'No problem, very easy," said Grete

Similarly, bugs in the PTV's conspired with Montreal's fierce snows several times last winter to immobilize a number of the vehicles. The precedent was embarrassingly set last fall wheo a PTV carrying dozens of airline officials malfunctioned in the middle of the gala airport dedication ceremonies.

However Mr. Ginzberg said that the problems had since been overcome. Morsover, Mirabel stood up well under the Olympic onslaught this summer. On its peak day so far, July 15, the airport handled 152 flights involv-

French Renew Glass Injunction

PARIS, Sept. 10 (Reuters)—The Freoch Monopoly Commission has renewed an April 1968 injunction aimed at putting a stop to certain anticompetitive prac-tices among glass container manufac-turers, the Government's official prices journal said. The commission has noted that two companies, Saint-Gobain and BSN-Gervais-Danone, last year accounted for 34 percent of French glass container production in terms of tonnage.

not enough. With unofficial figures showing that 1.5 million passengers passed through Mirabel between January and July, it seems unlikely that the airport will meet its three million first-year projection. To some extent, it appears, travelers may be making an effort to route them-selves through the more accessible Dor-val or even Toronto's airport, if possible, to avoid the drive to and from

Some Political Implications

Generally, however, there is little choice, since Mirabel handles all overseas flights for the Montreal area and Dorval remains reserved for domestic and trans-border air traffic.

However, with French-speaking Montrealers and other Quebec residents increasingly strident in demands for cultural recognition or separatism, the airport issue has taken on some political implications. Whether for this reason or others, the Government, which had oot planned to shift trans-border air traffic to Mirabel until 1980, is now reportedly seeking to route more flights through the giant oew facility.

Meanwhile, the Government and Mirabel seem to have come to terms with one major group of critics-the area's dislocated farmers. A bitter controversy over land compensation that sent protest demonstrators marching to the airport dedication last fall has been soothed away by generous payments and more local consultation. "We have to live with the airport and the future," said Msgr. Bernard Hubert in the Roman Catholic cathedral in St. Jerome, a municipality of 50,000 bor-

Owens-Illinois and Kerr Are Said to Discriminate

The Labor Department announced in/Washington that it had taken steps to deprive two glass companies, Owens-Ilinois Ioc. and the Kerr Glass Company, of all Federal cootracts for allegedly discriminating against women employees. Officials could not estimate the amount of business done for the Federal Government by the two concerns, most of it through subcontractors. Both companies have asked hearings to defend themselves.

Owens-Illinois was charged with re-Owens-Hillinois was charged with re-fusing to negotiate back pay for women at its Libbey glass plant in Toledo, Ohio, and also with establishing a dis-criminatory system of determining sal-aries for certain jobs, Kerr was charged with resisting afforts to award had not with resisting efforts to award back pay to blue-collar women workers as a result of alleged discrimination at its plants in Dunkirk, Ind., and Plainfield, Ill.

Compromise After Two Months Said to End Procedural Dispute That Halted Paris Parley

> By CLYDE H. FARNSWORTH Special to The New York Times

PARIS, Sept. 10-After two months of quiet and apparently effective diplomacy, wich and poor countries are ready to resume their deadlocked talks on ways to improve distribution of the world's Diplomatic sources reported that weekend meetings bere of representatives of both groups of countries were expected to approve a compromise on the language of the agenda to end a procedural conflict that halted the talks in July.

"I expect the talks to resume, probably next week, possibly next Monday or Tuesday," said a diplomatic source intimately involved. A spokesman for the French Government, which acts as chairman of what is called the Conference nn International Economic Cooperation. said: "Conditions have now been met for a resumption of the dialogue."

German and Japanese elections, all in the next few months, a good deal of significance is attached to revival of the negotiations. Because of the growing interdependence of economic and political sissues, analysts here said the resumption might improve the chances for a negotiated settlement of the problems of southern Arriva.

The Canadian and Venezuelan representatives have been meeting since July to try to break the deadlock.

Although the procedural issue was the immediate cause of the diapute, there was a basic substantive point—whether the industrial countries would entertain the idea of granting a debt moratorium to the developing countries. To protect the purchasing power of the developing countries, the United States, supported by several industrial countries, has proposed that income be guaranteed, so that if market prices fall below predetermined levels, the loss in earnings would be made up. The thirdworld countries, unwilling to be dependent on handouts, want market prices forward and admit they could apply for readmission to the academy. While the cheating scandal may not be completely ended and further cases may come to light, Mr. Hoffmann made clear that what he described as his "extraordinary" intervention on behalf of the cadets had come to an end.

He said that he bad sought to provide "maximum opportunity" for cadets to step forward and admit their guilt without facing permanent expulsion from the

The town asked for more control over determination of eligibility for the program, reform of the fair bearing process, additional funds to cover the cost of the equipment for the work programs and more help from state and county employment services.

A large part of the problem is that Woodstock is in an economically depressed area. County unemployment in July was at 11.8 percent and summer is usually the time of lowest unemployment. But some jobless people come to Woodstock because it's more pleasant to be on welfare there than elsewhere.

By "them," Mr. Carey meant the United Federation of Teachers here and the statewide New York State United Teachers, both of which bave made Senator Santucci a target for siding with the Governor in opposing the bill that required a fixed proportion of the city budget to be spent on the public schools. The law was declared unconstitutional in State Supreme Court last month.

The teachers' unions are backing Mr. returning to Albany.

"Let no one say in this room or any-where else that there is a better friend of the schoolchildren in New York State than John Santucci," the Governor said.

Speaking later to reporters, Mr. Carey elaborated, saying: "I'm really worried about having single-issue politics prevail in this state or this nation. The worst lesson for labor relations is that if a person is not in agreement 100 percent of the time you won't support him. There must be room for disagreement."

Senator Santucci, who is seeking bis fifth term, said he had received an unsolicited call from the Governor's office late Thursday afternoon telling him that Mr. a public endorsement. "I was astounded he said. "In my 45 years, no Governor

Badillo and Velez Trade Charges In Their First Campaign Debate

Councilman Ramon S. Velez traded a as close as they have been publicly since wide range of charges as they met in a debate yesterday for the first time in their heated Congressional primary race.

The candidates for the Democratic received the endorsements of a group of nomination for the 21st District seat in New York State, Federal and local legisthe South Bronx accused each other of being backed by "bosses" attributed part of the grinding problems of the area to poor leadership by a "bad" Congressman part, Mr. Velez was endorsed by a numor Councilman.

Mr. Velez accused Mr. Badillo of lying with regard to his allegations that money continues to be missing from the Hunts Point Multiservice Center, which Mr. Velez heads. Mr. Badillo said it was 'laughable that a man who can't even get garbage money for the South Bronx in the City Council" now says he in-tends to help improve the area by getting more money from Congress.

Despite these heated exclinages, during a 53-minute midafternoon taping for a program to be broadcast over. WCBS radio this evening the debate proceeded smoothly. Mr. Velez, dressed in a blue suit and with a loosened tie, sometimes pounded his firsts to stress points. Mr. Badillo rested his left elbow on the desk, where two interviewers were also sitting and waved his arm and his left index

Ellen Murray Is Wed To James T. Kelsey

The marriage of Mary Ellen Murray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Patrick Murray Jr. of Princeton, N.J., and Blooming Grove, Pa., to James Talcott Kelsey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey M. Kelsey Jr. of Rye, N.Y., took place in Princeton last evening.

The Rev. Thomas E. Davis, who assisted at the marriage of the bride's parents 25 years ago, performed the Roman Catholic ceremony in the Princeton University Chapel. A garden reception and dinner for 300 followed at Windy Hill Farm, the Murray home.

Mrs. Timothy Michael Hosea was matron of honor for her sister, who is known as Elien. The bridesmaids were Karen M. Kelsey and Marguerite S. Kelsey sisters of the bridegroom: Anne D. Flournoy and Janice Veillette, Robert Scott Murray, 8-year-old brother of the bride, was the page. Peter B. Kelsey served as his brother's best man.

The buide, a freelance designer and illustrator of children's films, graduated from the Stuart Country Day School in Princeton and with the class of '73 from the Newton (Mass.) College of the Sacred Heart. She studied also at the Sarah Lawrence Atelier in La-

The Senate has already approved waiving of the technicality, but with Congress scheduled to adjourn in less than a month, action by the House is doubtful unless the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee decides to make it a

Tests Cast Doubts on Nickel Carbonyl as Cause of Legionnaires' Il

By BOYCE RENSBERGER

Nickel carbonyl, one of several possible causes suggested for the Philadelphia mystery disease has emerged as the subect of not only one of the most tantalizing hyptoheses hut also in some ways one of the most improbable.

There are ways in which nickel carbonyl poisoning closely resembles the symptoms of the so-called "legionaires disease" in Philadelphia. But there seems almost no way the Philadelphia victims could have come in contact with the toxic substance, especially in the quantities needed to fell 179 persons.

There have been suggestions from the laboratory, though still no proof, that the victims breathed nickel compounds into their lungs. But tha tests have repeatedly been rendered inconclusive because the tissue samples appear to have been con-taminated with nickel after the victims

A review of the nickel carbonyl situa-tion illustrates the problems with which investigators have been grappling for nearly six weeks.

Many Symptoms Similar

Nickel carbonyl, a highly toxic compound that can exist either as a clear liquid or as a musty-smelling vapor, came under suspicion because many of the known symptoms of poisoning with the substance bore a close resemblance to those displayed by the victims of the mystery disease. Furthermore, the chief symptoms of nickel carbonyl poisoning develop several days after inhaling the vapors. The typical mystery disease cases also had delayed onsets.

JAILING OF NEWSMEN PROTESTED ON COAST

10 Busloads of Church Members From San Francisco Picket Courthouse in Fresno

By WALLACE TURNER

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 10-Ten busloads of demonstratora from an activist church in a depressed district here will picket the Freeno County Courthouse around the clock this weekend to protest the jailing of four newsmen on contempt

We feel that the Judeo-Christian tradition's most prominent concern is freedom," said the Rev. Jim Jones, 44 years old. "Where the apirit of God is, there's liberty. We've alwaya been very freedom-

Two Fresno Bee editors and two reporters were jailed Sept. 3 in an attempt to make them tell the court how they gained access to secret grand jury testimony in an investigation of clvic corruption.

A hearing is scheduled for Sept. 17, when the four men will tell the court that the attempt to coerce their testimony by jailing them will fail because they are determined not to betray their source.

Possible Sentences

Even if they are successful in this bearing, they will be liable to five-day jail terms and $500 fines for each count of contempt. This could range from an additional 15 days in jail for The Bee's managing editor, George Gruner, to 75 days for James H. Bort Jr., the oewspaper's ombudsman, and 90 days for William K. Patterson and Joe Rosato, the two county cour mouse reporters who wrote the three Discriminatory Practices Against courthouse reporters who wrote the three

Their attorneys will also argue that only one contempt count is proper, one derived from their refusal to say where their informatioo came from.

It was learned yesterday that neither Mr. Bort nor Mr. Gruner knows the identity of the source, so both are in jail for refusing to answer a question they

Apathy Scored

Mr. Jones, the pastor of the San Fran cisco church group picketing here, said, "The apathy is appalling. Either it's that or despair. I don't know what to make

He said the pickets walked all night and planned to cootioue until early Sunday. As they marched, they polled pass-

Carey iotervene.

The charge, made by the New York Urban League's Open Housing Center in letter sent to the Governor on Thursday, was denied yesterday by the head of the resident management board.

He said that his group was consulting with the civil-rights officials to try to program for the state-financed project that such officials would favor, and he visit with bis four employees at the country prison farm yesterday, was also criti-"misinformation."

A spokesman for Eleanor Holmes You'd have to do what they told Norton, chairman of the New York City Mr. McClatchy said. 'The wrong Commission, on Human Rights, said that judge, knowing where you are weak in personnel and financing, could take control of what a paper could do."

The Fresno Bee newsmen cited its protection, but the courts held that the judge had a right to name and continued in the courts held that the judge had a right to the courts held the courts had the courts had the courts held the courts had the courts had

Concerned With Patterns

Mr. Rosen, according to the Norton spokesman, was also concerned that the renting patterns under the previous man-agement—when the middle income development was first occupied in the late living in Co-op City was oot racially dis-1960's—had led to a concentration of the project's minority families in certain sections of Co-op City, rather than to their dispersal throughout the project's 35

Schools in Louisville Are Cal. In 2d Year of Desegregation

BY REGINALD STUART

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 10—"Beauti- tional Organization to Restore Our Freedom "" Those are some of the words members the human relations team for the Jefferson County Public Schools system used to describe the atmosphere inside some of the city's public schools this

But aside from were not familiar those posters, minor isolated clashes between the police and a diminishing number of protesters and a small bomb-ing in an empty school gym, the atmo-sphere has been significantly calmer this year than last.

Futility of Violent Things'

"I think people have seen the futility of the violent things that happened," said Thomas N. Golden, the 61-year-old principel of the Shivley Christian School, a private institution organized here last year by opponents of school desegrega-

"The opposition is still just as strong," said Mr. Golden, who receetly retired after 17 years of teaching in the public schools here. "But it is trying to come at this problem another way."

The often bloody coofrontations that erupted last fall have had an impact upon the thinking of the community. And many agree that what happened here just 12 months ago should not happen again under any circumstances.

"There are scars in this community that will never be healed." said Jean Ruffra, vice chairman of the Jefferson youths appeared to be from neither particularly poor nor well-to-do families, but uncooscious and in critical condition since looked to him "like an ordinary slice of youth in the community."

> It was often said here thet if Sue S. Connor, a mother of three who was perhaps the most important figure io last year's antibusing movement, wes not at a rally, it was not official.

Attitude This Year

"I think whet we have here now is problem where I have no right to influence anyone at this time, after what bappened last year," Mrs. Connor said in an oterview. Noting that the school system is having significant problems financially, some of them resulting from last year's fairly effective boycott by students, she said she was concerned that parents who want to send their children to school for an education be able to do so.

'My moral judgment says boycott.' said Mrs. Connor. "But my Christian judgmeot says no."
